A LITTLE BIT COUNTRY–Vice president George Bush recently took time to meet with ASCAP country music members Mike Reid ("Stranger In My House"), Richard Leigh ("Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue"), and Kevin Lamb (vice president, general manager, Maypop Music Group) when a large group of music leaders from across the country came to Washington to discuss their opposition to the "source licensing" bills with legislators. Pictured in the vice president's Capitol Hill office are (l-r): Reid, Bush, Leigh and Lamb.

Former KMET Jocks To File Suit

LOS ANGELES_Former KMET disc jockeys Jim Ladd, David Perry and Jack Snyder announced last week that they will be filing multi-million dollar lawsuits against KMET, Frank Cody, station manager, and Howard Bloom. KMET, a long-time album rock station in Los Angeles, recently changed its call letters and format to KTWV, a hybrid "New Age" format, and fired its on air talent.

At a press conference to be held May 22 at the Greater Los Angeles Press Club, the DJs will announce the specifics of their suits.

A&M Joins Others With Mid-line CDs

LOS ANGELES–With most of the majors jumping into the budget CD market now that CD supply has eased, A&M Records last week cast its lot in with the others. According to A&M vice president of sales David Steffan, A&M has reduced the price of 43 titles from its catalog.

The new price goes into effect June 1 for a street date of June 29. The titles are taken from A&M's catalog of past and present artists, including Bryan Adams, Joe Jackson, Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass, Oingo Boingo, Nazareth, Quincy Jones, Carpenters, Styx, Supertramp and others. Most were released between 1970 and the mid-1980s. The LP and cassette versions of these titles are already in A&M's $6.49 list budget program.

A&M customers are being asked to return their previously existing inventory for full credit. A request to do so is available from each custeromer's RCA, A&M & Arista Distribution representative. Returns must be completed by June 26. The product can then be reordered at the new, lower price.

According to Steffan, an additional 20 titles may become available in the program by year's end. It is A&M's hope that this returns program will eleviate retailer distress over existing inventory.

BMG To Open Distribution Center In South Carolina

NEW YORK–BMG Music (formerly RCA/Ariola) plans to open a commercial distribution center in Spartanburg County, South Carolina. Consisting of two buildings, each approximately 300,000 square feet, the plant is expected to be completed and fully operational by the end of the year.

Housed in the new facility will be the central catalogue operation and warehousing, a returns center, as well as the existing cassette, video and CD clubs. The new distribution center will not be responsible for the operation or distribution of the RCA Records Club, currently operating in Indianapolis.

BMG said that staffing needs of the new facility had not yet been finalized, but, in addition to 85 order processors and clerical personnel and six supervisory personnel currently in Spartanburg, approximately 250 new jobs will be created. Staffing needs are to be met through local South Carolina employment.

Chappell Bought By WCI

By Stephen Padgett

LOS ANGELES–Chappell and Company, Inc., the giant music publishing company, has entered into an agreement with Warner Communications, Inc. whereby WCI will acquire a 100 percent interest in the publishing company.

Chappell, which had been rumored to be on the block for more than six months, was acquired by WCI at a price reported to be in excess of $200 million. WCI prevailed in acquiring Chappell over a field of competitors that included, among others, MCA. MCA Music and Entertainment Group president Irving Azoff told Cash Box that his company's offer of $185 million was "turned down."

A statement issued May 13 from WCI's New York headquarters said, "WCI will acquire 100 percent of the music publishing firm from a group of private investors. Completion of the transaction is subject to regulatory approval and the execution of a definitive agreement. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed."

If the deal is approved and completed, it would result in joining two of the three largest music publishers, creating the largest such company in the world. Among the wealth of copyrights administered by Chappell are works by Gilbert and Sullivan, George and Ira Gershwin, Lawrence Hart, Cole Porter, Rodgers and Hammerstein and Irving Berlin.

Reports in Tuesday, May 12 editions of the Los Angeles Times suggested that WCI would purchase Chappell with $200 in preferred stock. By doing so, WCI would dilute Chris-Craft Industries' share in its stock. According to the Times, Chris-Craft is an often divisive element at shareholders meetings. Geoffrey W. Holmes, vice president, WCI, asserted that the suggestion was "absolutely not truc." He went on to say, "There will be preffered stock, that's part of the deal , but it is a small part of the deal."

The majority of the $200 million purchase price "is an assumption of debt that Chappell has currently," Holmes said. "The amount of shares that will be issued is not significant and will not dilute them (Chris-Craft) at all," he added.

Chappell is expected to maintain a seperate identity, according to Holmes, although he did not rule out that it may be subsumed somewhat into WCI's existing publishing arm, Warner Bros. Music Publishing. "Over time we will consolidate the two," he said, but added, "I would certainly hate to lose the Chappell identity, particularly in markets where Chappell is a force."

Chappell's rich holdings in what Holmes calls "non-pop" music as well as its international profile makes its fusion with Warner Bros., a strong domestic pop company, a particularly appropriate one, Holmes claims.

Neither Chuck Kaye, Warner Bros. Music Publishing president, nor Freddy Bienstock, Chappell's top executive, could be reached for comment. How the new deal will affect the two executives is still uncertain.

Stephen Bishop, David Foster Take Top Awards At BMI Pop Awards

LOS ANGELES–Stephen Bishop won an award for the most performed song for his "Separate Lives (Love Theme from White Nights)" and David Foster was named songwriter of the year at the 35th annual BMI Pop Awards Dinner at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel.

Music publisher Warner-Tamerlane Publishing Corporation took top awards as publisher of the year with ten awards as BMI president and CEO Frances Preston and West Coast vice president Ron Anton honored the songwriters and publishers of BMI's most performed pop songs of the past year.

Bishop's publishers are Gold Horizon Music Corp., Hidden Pun Music, Inc. and Stephen Bishop Music Publishing company. Foster received four awards for the songs "Glory Of Love (Theme From The Karate Kid Part II); "Love theme From St. Elmo's Fire;" "Now And Forever (You And me," and St. Elmo's Fire (Man In Motion)." which picked up its second award.

Other multiple winners were Canadian songwriter Jim Vallance (PROC) with three and songwriters Gilbert Alexander Gabriel (PRS), Steven George, Daryl Hall, Will Jennings, Howard Jones (PRS), Nicholas William Laird-Clowes (PRS), John Lang, Richard Page, Carole Bayer Sager and Ina Wolf received two citations each.

In a remarkable comeback, Ben E. King's "Stand By Me," a previous award winner, picked up its third award along with five other previous award winners. The King song has enjoyed an unprecedented 21 weeks on the pop chart. The classic originally hit the charts in 1961. Other previous winners included "Cherish," "Everytime You Go Away," "Happy, Happy, Birthday Baby," "Lost In The Fifties Tonight (In The Still Of The Night), and "St. Elmo's Fire (Man In M

FAT BOYS–Crushin'–Tin Pan Apple/Polydor 831 948–Producers: Fat Boys-Gary Rottger–List: 8.98–Bar Coded

Fat Boys are a fun-loving rap trio that combine a hard-hitting rock boy beat with clever raps. OUT OF THE BOX

SHELLEYAN ORPHAN–Helleborine–Columbia BFC 40545–Producer: Haydn Bendall–No List–Bar Coded

Shelleyan Orphan, as their name may suggest, are a hybrid pop act that relies heavily on romantic poetic imagery of the great poets Shelley, Keats, Yeats, etc. Utilizing cellos, violins, violas, flutes and oboes, their sound is at once punk, folk and classical. Another Rough Trade band, they work in a shared universe with The Dream Academy and Virginia Astley.

OUT OF THE BOX

ISLEY JASPER ISLEY–Different Drummer–Columbia FZ 40409–Producers: Ernie Isley-Chris Jasper-Marvin Isley–No List–Bar Coded

THE NEIGHBORHOODS–Reptile Men–Emergo EM 9626–Producers: The Hoods-Phil Greene–List: 8.98–Bar Coded

SINGLE RELEASES

OUT OF THE BOX

PRINCE (Paisley Park 7-28334)

If I Was Your Girlfriend (3:46) (Controversy/ASCAP) (Prince) (Producer: Prince)

The second single from the enigmatic Minnesota hitmaker's "Sign 'O' The Times" is another startling, unique effort. The stark production coupled with gender-bending lyrics and a seething performance is pure Prince. Fraught with psychodramatics and sexual ambiguity, its hard to imagine anyone but Prince having success with this, but to his credit it will no doubt be huge.

OUT OF THE BOX

LONE JUSTICE (Geffen 7-28470)

I Found Love (4:15) (Little Diva/BMI–Little Steven/ASCAP) (Maria McKee-Steven Van Zandt) (Producers: Little Steven-Jimmy Iovine-Lone Justice)

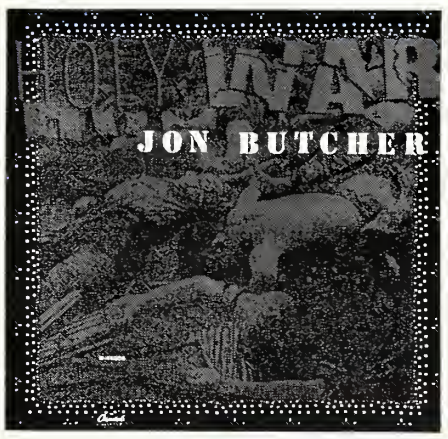
McKee and Company are getting great exposure opening things up for U2 on the current tour. The long-overdue success for the group may be just around the corner and this stinging, rave-up should help the cause. McKee delivers the song of hope with a selfless abandon that reaches out and pulls you in.

OUT OF THE BOX

BEASTIE BOYS (Def Jam/Columbia 38 06675) She's Crafty (3:36) (Def Jam-Brooklyn Dust/ASCAP) (A. Yauch-R. Rubin-The King) (Producers: Rick Rubin-Beastie Boys)

In an unusual marketing move, Columbia releases a double-sided single from the runaway best-seller rap act. This side is going to pop radio and is a slamming tongue-in-cheek rocker. "No Sleep Till Brooklyn" is a raucous, rambunctious blend of rap, smart-ass and heavy metal.

OUT OF THE BOX



JON BUTCHER (Capitol B-44006)

Holy War (4:07) (The Grand Pasha/BMI) (Jon Butcher) (Producers: Spencer Proffer-Jon Butcher)

A tribal rock enthusiasm is the evocative underpinning for this fists-in-the-air rampage against–timely enough–TV evangelists and other insincere religious charlatans.

FEATURE PICKS

DANNY WILSON (Virgin 7-99465)

Mary's Prayer (3:52) (copyright control) (Gary Clark) (Producer: Dave Bascombe)

British trio Danny Wilson jump on the scene with a strikingly original sound with fresh inspiration. The enigmatic song has an infectious, underlying effervescence.

JULIAN COPE (Island 7-99448)

Eve's Volcano (3:50) (Virgin-Nymph/BMI) (Julian Cope) (Producer: Warne Livesey)

It's only a matter of time for this guy before he breaks things wide open. "World Shut Your Mouth" opened things up at several levels of radio, and this one should put another foot further in the door.

JOE COCKER (MCA 53077)

Love Lives On (3:50) (MCA–Music Corp. of America/ASCAP-BMI) (Barry Mann-Bruce Broughton-Cynthia Weill-Will Jennings) (Producers: Dan Hartman-Charlie Midnight)

Cocker is no stranger to the world of songs for films. This one lines up behind his "Up Where We Belong" (An Officer And A Gentleman) as having a chance at chart success. It is a robust romantic ballad.

JANET JACKSON (A&M AM-2927)

The Pleasure Principle (4:19) (Flyte Tyme/ASCAP) (Monte Moir) (Producer: Monte Moir)

The incredible string of singles from "Control" continues with this blistering, high-torque dance cut. The spacious urban ambiance will make this a natural in the clubs and on Power radio formats.

SUZANNE VEGA (A&M AM-2937)

Luka (3:51) (Waifersongs–AGF/ASCAP) (Suzanne Vega) (Producers: Steve Addabbo-Lenny Kaye)

Vega's fragile, but expressive, voice is perfectly suited to this tale of urban isolation and domestic violence. The painful subject is in direct contrast to the whispy elegance of the melody.

WANG CHUNG (Geffen 7-28359)

Hypnotize Me (3:57) (Chong adm by WB/ASCAP–Warner-Tamerlane/BMI) (Wang Chung) (Producer: Peter Wolf)

Wang Chung's distinctive melodic and rhythmic instincts are on display here in this crafty, uptempo single. It will get additional exposure by virtue of its inclusion in the upcoming Steven Spielberg movie, Innerspace.

MOTLEY CRUE (Elektra 7-69465)

Girls, Girls, Girls (4:30) (Motley Crco umlautue–Krell–Sikkie Nixx–Mick Mars/BMI) (Producer: Tom Werman)

The title track and first single to their forthcoming LP finds the raunch hands of heavy metal landing square on the rough boy tripod: sex, parties and rock and roll. No finesse here, just full throttle headbanging destined to raise the ire of feminists while filling the cash registers of happy retailers nationwide.

PETER WOLF (EMI America B-43012)

Can't Get Started (3:02) (Pal-Park/ASCAP) (Wolf) (Producers: Peter Wolf-Eric "E.T." Thorngren)

Wolf follows his Top 15 chart success "Come As You Are" with this good-time rocker. Full tilt rhythm section and a blowing sax power the fun.

POINTS WEST

INTEGRITY–Every once in awhile, the labels do something which renews Points West's belief in humankind in the music business. Hats off to WEA, NARM, and most recently PolyGram for cancelling their forthcoming conventions in Arizona because of that state's irreverent attitude toward Martin Luther King, Jr. Good work, guys. The state that refuses to observe King's birthday is losing out on convention dollars. Let's hope other industries will take your cue.

VERBOSE–Joe Jackson talks and plays at UCLA May 20.

MOVIN' ON–A&M a&r staffer Barry Korkin (''Classics'' CD project coordinator for A&M) has bid farewell to the label to pursue other opportunities in music and entertainment. You can reach him at (818) 980-0430.

JACKSON SPEAKS–At noon on Wednesday, May 20, in the Grand Ballroom of UCLA's Ackerman Union, A&M recording artist Joe Jackson will appear for an open discussion of ... well, anything that occurs to him. Apparently, the guy is just going to sound off for a while, and then perform a tune (''Nocturne'') from his latest LP, ''Will Power.'' ''Controversial'' and ''Iconoclastic'' are two of the adjectives the A&M publicity department uses to describe Jackson, and hey, should be an interesting afternoon. The appearance is a presentation of NARAS in conjunction with UCLA Campus Events.

WATERS SPEAKS–Via his attorneys, that is. Roger Waters, whose forthcoming (June 15) Columbia LP, ''Radio K.A.O.S, is based on a fictitious Southern California radio station, has issued a statement to the press regarding the legal battle between himself and former Pink Floyd mates David Gilmour and Nick Mason, who have an album and tour due late this summer under the Pink Floyd monicker. The statement reads: ''Pink Floyd recorded a number of highly successful albums between 1967 and 1983, including ''Dark Side Of The Moon'' and ''The Wall.'' Roger Waters was the major songwriter and producer of the albums as well as the lead singer and creative force. The dispute with the other members of Pink Floyd is proceeding in the courts to resolve the question of rights to the name and assets of Pink Floyd, which include the many stage effects used in the past. This litigation will probably not be resolved until 1988 at the earliest. Despite press reports to the contrary, Waters has not dropped any of his claims. Waters will not again record or perform with Dave Gilmour and Nick Mason under the name of Pink Floyd or at all.'' Waters plans to include selections from ''The Wall'' as well as from ''Dark Side Of The Moon'' on his forthcoming world tour (which sees its North American leg in September). We can only suppose the two shows (Waters' and Pink Floyd's) won't let their song lists overlap. But what if they do? An event for the media looms. Incidentally, Waters' new album, which centers on a renegade dj, Jim (played by former KMET dj Jim Ladd, ironically enough), who is engaged in a futile battle against format-controlled radio, and a phone-in listener, Billy, with similar concerns, is being developed into a screenplay, with production targeted for next year. Waters' most recent LP, ''The Pros And Cons Of Hitchhiking,'' is already in screen treatment form (no production date as yet).

LEGAL BATTLES–Roger Waters hasn't dropped any claims against former Pink Floyd bandmates Nick Mason and David Gilmour.

IN PARTING–Columbia recording act Hipsway comes to the Roxy June 4 during their national tour. The band's single, ''Ask The Lord,'' released April 27, just got video-ized in London. Dario Paloni directed ... MCA recording act Boston, who recently announced their first tour in eight years, make it to L.A.'s Forum July 18 and 20, and to the bay area's Oakland Coliseum July 24 ... ''The Contemporary Keyboardist'' is a new method book by keyboard player John Novello, getting raves from the musician sheets ... Guitarist Teja Bell has signed with Global Pacific Records. His first record under the deal, a duet with Steve Kindler called ''Dolphin Smiles,'' is now in release.

NEW FACES TO WATCH

''For me, music is a very personal expression. This is what I feel. A letting out of feelings,'' says Kirk Brandon, singer/songwriter for the fiery British quintet Spear of Destiny, who have just released their first stateside album for the fledgling Virgin America label.

A veteran of both the bands Burning Rome and the aggressive, dour Theatre Of Hate, Brandon's current band is the third embodiment of Spear Of Destiny. ''The last incarnation of the band went on to greener pastures,'' Brandon told Cash Box in an interview at Virgin's Beverly Hills offices. ''It had come to the end of the road. It started repeating arrangements. There was an established pattern to the songs and I don't like that.''

On the new release, ''Outlands,'' the band–nick-named SODIII–serve up a healthy dose of guitar-driven, rhythmic pieces which are tonally and thematically tinged with Brandon's ever-present sense of alienation and anomie without the forbidding snarling drone of some of Brandon's previous work. A natural for the college/alternative crowd, the material here should build a solid base of fans here.

''I wanted to get back to playing rock 'n' roll and I'm a lot happier with what I'm doing now. I think there's a lot more space in it,'' says Brandon. ''You can sort of see into it and feel it. There's more time for the listener. The last album was a bit frenzied, a bit cluttered. This one is stripped relatively down to guitar, drums and soundtrack. I think it's a well-crafted album and as far as I'm concerned, although everyone will say this about their new album, I genuinely think it's the best thing I've ever done.''

Indeed, from the barren future of ''Outlands,'' the funky/metal groove of the satiric ''Miami Vice,'' to the haunting ''Strangers In Our Town,'' Brandon's vocals are strong, frequently chilling and always exciting. ''If I were a blues singer, I'd say these are troubled times, uncertain times and a lot of this uncertainty comes out in 'Outlands.' There's a bit of desperation in it as well. A lot of it is seen from the bottom looking up.''

SPEAR OF DESTINY

Brandon's new band consists of Steve Barnacle (bass, keyboards), his brother Pete Barnacle (drums), Brandon (vocals, guitars) and German keyboardist Volker Janssen. Marco Peroni, late of Adam and the Ants, also played guitar on the album. ''He just came out and gave me a hand,'' says Brandon. ''He was excellent.''

Since the last Spear Of Destiny Albums on another label were released in the U.K. and Brazil exclusively (Don't ask me about it, I don't know, Brandon shrugs), he is excited to have an American release, especially on the aggressive Virgin America label. ''It's a totally new audience and I'm looking forward to see what happens here.'' What are his expectations for ''Outlands'' in the U.S.? ''I don't know,'' he chuckles, ''It's virgin territory.''

America Discovers Ladysmith Black Mambazo

By Paul Iorio

NEW YORK – Paul Simon's ''Graceland'' shows have given Ladysmith Black Mambazo, a ten-man South African a capella choir, wider U.S. exposure than ever before. Though Ladysmith is a superstar act in its homeland, having recorded 25 albums, only a few of its albums have been available in the U.S., where they are relatively unknown. Their Warner Bros. debut album, ''Shaka Zulu,'' coming in the midst of their tour with Simon, may change all that.

At a recent show in New York, people packed a downtown club to hear the group in its pure form, apart from the Simon entourage, and the reception was enthusiastic. Ladysmith was full of movement as they took the stage, with hands shaking and fingers pointing and feet kicking. Their harmonies were seamless as Joseph Shabalala led the group through call-and-response vocals and dance steps that animated such songs as ''How Long'' and ''King Of Kings,'' from the ''Shaka Zulu'' album. And their version of ''Homeless'' proved that Ladysmith was as responsible as Simon for the charm and power of ''Graceland.''

Shabalala co-wrote ''Homeless'' with Simon, and, in a recent interview with Cash Box, explained how the song was constructed. ''Paul Simon wrote 'we are homeless/moonlight sleeping on the midnight lake' and 'somebody say, hello hello/somebody cry,''' Shabalala said. ''And then we took another part from our old records, the 'ih hih ih hih ih.' We just put it there

COVER STORY

Ozzy Osbourne Tips His Hat To A Friend

By Lee Jeske

NEW YORK–"Until I met Randy Rhoads, I was just a singer with a rock and roll band who had a lot of ideas," says Ozzy Osbourne by car telephone from England as he's motoring off to his doctor for a physical. "But, because I didn't play a musical instrument it was very frustrating for me during all those years with Black Sabbath to get any ideas across. And then, when I met Randy Rhoads–who also was a music teacher–being a teacher he had the patience to bring my ideas out. Whereas, you feel a bit of a bozo when you've got a melody and you don't even know what key you're doing it in. He'd sort all the keys out, he worked out what was comfortable for me and everything else great."

Randy Rhoads joined the Osbourne entourage in 1979. In 1982, he died in a bizarre airplane accident, when the driver of the Osbourne tour bus, a licensed pilot, decided to go up for a late night spin in a plane with several members of the crew and band and ended up hitting the bus. Now, five years later, Ozzy Osbourne has released a live double album, recorded in Canada in 1981, "Tribute" (CBS Associated), in tribute to Randy Rhoads. The album is rocketing up the charts with Osbournian alacrity.

"Where in Canada it was recorded, I haven't got the faintest idea," says Ozzy, "I didn't even mark the boxes. The original idea of the album was the original 'Speak of the Devil' album. But I thought at the time it was very sick to put it out as a live album, so I canned the Randy stuff and I went in and recorded all old stuff, because I was under contractual obligation to CBS Records to deliver a live album at the time.

"I refused to put this Randy Rhoads album out because it was so shortly after his death, I thought people'd think, 'Well, he's just cashing in on the death of his friend.' I just felt bad about it, because you've got to take into consideration that not only did I lose a good friend and a business partner, but his mother lost a son. I just couldn't do it–I think when people do things like that, somehow it comes back on them."

In fact, says Ozzy, he had little to do with the present album except to spend about an hour making sure the sound was right. His wife, Sharon, Randy's mother, and producer/engineer Max Norman were the ones responsible for the finished album.

The death of Randy Rhoads had an enormous impact on the maven of metal.

"At the time of his death, I just said to my wife, 'It's all over.' I'd just gone through this whole thing of getting it all back together again after Black Sabbath and now all of a sudden the most incredible guy I've ever met in my life gets killed in front of my eyes. And I just said at the time, 'I'm finished, I can't go on anymore.' I kind of just snapped. And Sharon said, 'You're crazy if you do, because that's not the way you do it. You've got to get up and carry on, otherwise you're going to sit there forever thinking that that's where your life stopped.' It's like people on a battlefield–you lost a budyy running across a minefield, but you carry on, you've got to carry on if

EAST COASTINGS

BY 1981, SQUEEZE seemed to be on the verge of mass success. Songwriters Chris Difford and Glenn Tilbrook were being compared to Lennon & McCartney and Gilbert & Sullivan, and the band had become a hot live act. By the end of the summer, their fourth album, "East Side Story" (A&M), had climbed halfway up the top 100, and a single, "Tempted," had done the same. Later, the next year, they would headline Madison Square Garden for the first time, in support of an album that quickly went top forty and then just as rapidly dropped from the charts. The build-up for that LP, "Sweets For A Stranger," had been tremendous, so the let-down was equally devastating. That fall, the band broke-up.

Now Squeeze has reunited. Their recent sold-out shows at the Ritz were so well-received that they seem closer to mass-success today than when they were doing their best work. Gauging from the shriek level in the audience, songs like "Another Nail In My Heart" and "Pulling Mussels (From The Shell)" are finally catching on in a big way – seven years after the fact.

In concert, the songs from their upcoming A&M studio album, tentatively titled "Life In The Bus Lane," were performed without the tricks and contrivances that have marred their work since 1982. That's a good sign, because they had gotten too fussy in the studio, warping catchy choruses and disfiguring melodies as if ashamed of the fact that they're better at writing "Penny Lane" than "Strawberry Fields Forever." But an album that captures the pub-rock spontaneity and charm of their live shows might finally – belatedly – earn them a place at the top of the charts.

LA BAMBA, a film about Ritchie Valens' rise to stardom, is more than just another rock 'n' roll fantasy in the Buddy Holly Story mode. With gritty authenticity, it captures the Mexican-American milieu of the San Fernando Valley where Valens grew up, and dramatizes the volatile relationship between Valens (played by Lou Diamond Phillips) and his half-brother Bob (Esai Morales). The music in the film is also superb. Los Lobos's David Hidalgo is the singing-voice of Valens on such songs as "Come On Let's Go," "La Bamba," and "Donna," and the band even performs on screen at one point. Also notable is Marshall Crenshaw as Buddy Holly, singing "Crying, Waiting, Hoping," and Brian Setzer as Eddie Cochran, playing "Summertime Blues." The soundtrack album, from Slash/Warner Bros., should be a hot item this summer, as should the film, which will be released July 24 by Columbia Pictures.....Ishtar is another Columbia film, featuring music of a different kind. It stars Dustin Hoffman and Warren Beatty who play a fledgling songwriting team that has to go all the way to the middle east to find work. Beatty and Hoffman actually wrote some of the songs they sing in the movie, and many of them are good parodies of bad songwriting. Looking forward to hearing the hilarious "Dangerous Business" (by Paul Williams and Michael James Jackson), "Love In My Will" (by Williams and Elaine May), and the Hoffman penned "Harem Girl," on the upcoming Capitol soundtrack album.

LA BAMBA – Lou Diamond Phillips stars as Ritchie Valens in the Columbia film La Bamba. The upcoming soundtrack album from Slash/Warner Bros. features music performed by Los Lobos.

BRIEFINGS – Run-D.M.C. and The Beastie Boys announced plans for a co-headlining tour of North America, at a New York press conference May 11. The tour, dubbed Together Forever and featuring opening act Davy D., will swing around to the east coast in August with the following shows: Miami (8/6), Washington, D.C. (8/15), Philadelphia (8/16), and a final show tentatively scheduled for August 17 at New York's Madison Square Garden....Suzanne Vega's two sold-out performances at the Shubert Theatre (5/3) showcased songs from her new "Solitude Standing" (A&M) album and her 1985 debut LP. Backed by a four-piece band that provided intricate folk-rock accompaniment, Vega got the best response with "Luka," "Marlene On The Wall," and "Left Of Center," though "Gypsy," from her new album, was an unexpected highlight, sounding like something James Taylor could turn into a hit. Vega also performed on Saturday Night Live recently, as part of the current world tour....Huey Lewis joined Tower Of Power for a midnight jam at New York's Bottom Line May 6, the night after his second sold-out Madison Square Garden show. Lewis, who was backed by the horn section at his MSG gigs, played "Don't Change Horses In The Middle Of The Stream" and "You're Still A Young Man" to a crowd that included Nick Lowe and Joe Jackson. Roadhouse rocker Lonnie Mack opened for Lewis at MSG, in support of his new album, "Second Sight" (Alligator). "The last time I played Madison Square Garden," says Mack, "was with the Doors back in the sixties. The Doors had a really young audience – twelve and fifteen year olds. So they didn't want to hear nothing about 'I Found Love.' They wanted to see Jim Morrison come out and unzip his pants....I'm still doing what I've always done. They say if you stay with anything long enough, it'll come back around"....Beth Brenman, the wife of Passport Records art director Murray Brenman, gave birth to Ariel David Brenman April 12....Profile Records vp Steve Plotnicki and his wife Linda had twins, Gideon Maxwell and Noah Issac, May 4.

"Tribute," he says, provided something of a catharsis.

"At the beginning of this project, it was kind of a weird thing–not hearing Randy play for all these years and then hearing this live album. It sort of brought back a lot of old memories and opened a lot of old wounds again. In the long run, it was good, because it made me realize and accept–and I think it made all the people that loved and admired Randy and worked with him–that that's the way life is, you've got to get on with the future."

As for what Randy might me doing now had he lived, Ozzy says, "His dream was to get a degree in classical guitar playing and also to combine classical and rock together, and that was the idea he had for the future. Somebody just asked me, 'Do you think Randy Rhoads would still be playing with you now if he was alive?' I really don't know; who knows? I like to think he would have got his degree in classical guitar music, because he was a very talented guy. Most guitar players I've played with, four-fifths of them their instrument becomes a secondary thing. Their instrument is the thing what gets the acclaim in the first place, and when they start getting the success and the acclaim, they forget the instrument and start buying sports cars. But Randy wasn't into that, he was just purely and simply into what he was doing. He loved his instrument."

The immediate future for Ozzy Osbourne is to go to California and hire yet another guitar player, begin planning his next studio album, and, in the summer, to act in a film comedy (he's done with slasher roles he says, after his appearance last year in Trick or Treat, because "it's just like walking out in front of the camera with a big dagger and stabbing everybody. Every week I must get at least five or six scripts for this Phantom or that Phantom, or The Beast Of That or The Beast of This.").

"You know next year's the 20th anniversary of me," says Ozzy Osbourne, fast approaching his doctor's office, "I've been doing it now for 20 years, next year will be 20 years, and I'm really going to have a big thing about it. It's like I turned around and said, 'What happened? What happened to the time?'" that place. I wrote the Zulu: 'Emaweni webaba silale maweni.' And I wrote in English too: 'Strong wind destroy our home/many dead tonight it could be you.'"

"Paul Simon writes 'homeless' and said, Joseph, please continue on the lyrics," he says. "When I read the Bible, there is a promise that there is a better home in heaven. I was thinking about that."

Shabalala formed the group, all of whom are related to one another, in the mid-sixties in his hometown of Ladysmith, a South African farm community. Their music is rural and naturalistic, with lyrics about sunsets, moonlight, and rain, and it has great appeal in the urban centers of South Africa. Ladysmith plays isicathamiya (translation: "sneak attack"), a form of Zulu choir music, and its lyrics on the group's new album are both in English and Zulu. Ladysmith Black Mambazo is as non-ideological as the natural phenomena they sometimes sing about, and Shabalala insists that those who read other meanings into his lyrics are mistaken.

Ladysmith seems more at home singing than talking; during a recent press conference in New York the group spontaneously broke into "Rain, Rain, Beautiful Rain." Their harmonies were so powerful that they didn't need microphones, and in fact when they began as a group they didn't have them. "In our country we haven't got powerful microphones so we have to force our voice when we sing," said Shabalala at the press conference. "When we sing with Paul Simon, he used to tell us that we must sing easy. Now, we've learned to sing easy."

Shabalala says he wasn't exposed to much music from outside South Africa when he was growing up, and that he first heard of Simon when preparation for "Graceland" was underway. "Where I grew up on the farm there is no radio or grammaphone. There was nothing until I arrived in the city and then I started to hear radio."

Shabalala hinted that there was at least one other U.S. artist he might want to collaborate with. "When we were at the Grammy Awards I liked Stevie Wonder," Shabalala told Cash Box. "I like his music very much. I would like to work with anybody who likes to work with me. But Stevie Wonder – that day to me he was number one."

Tom Scholz Talks About Boston's Summer Tour

By Paul Iorio

BOSTON – Boston will tour the U.S. this summer for the first time in eight years, the band announced at a press conference here (12). Fourteen shows in nine cities have been scheduled, and others will be added, including a Washington, D.C. concert for the Greenpeace organization in August.

The tour, which comes nine months after the release of the quadruple platinum "Third Stage" (MCA) album, will also include a performance at the 10th Annual Texas Jam in Dallas, and multiple dates in Los Angeles and the New York area. Warner Bros.'s Farrenheit, also from Boston, will be the opening act.

The band line-up includes guitarist Tom Scholz, vocalist Brad Delp, guitarist Gary Pihl, bassist David Sikes, and two drummers, Doug Huffman and Jim Masdea. In addition, Scholz will use a special guitar amplifier he's been developing since 1982, which he says will enable him to reproduce the sounds on the band's records live.

Bearsville Catalog Licensed To Rhino

LOS ANGELES–Domestic licensing rights to the Bearsville Records catalog has been acquired by Rhino Records.

The deal, considered the largest in Rhino history, includes recordings by Todd Rundgren and Utopia, Foghat, Jesse Winchester and late bluesman Paul Butterfield's band Better Days. The product will be available on vinyl, tape and CD.

The Santa Monica-based label paid roughly six figures for the deal, which covers rights to more than 80 albums (not all of which will necessarily be released) for a period of roughly three years. The deal also covers film and TV rights, according to Rhino president Harold Bronson.

The first package for release, slated for June (though Bronson thinks it may be later) includes Rundgren's "The Ballad of Todd Rundgren," "Runt," "Todd Rundgren's Utopia" and "Initiation."

To enhance sound quality for vinyl and tape, Rhino will re-master the albums direct to metal. The label also plans to use original Bearsville packaging and liner notes, according to Bronson.

84 writers and 66 publishers of 63 songs received BMI's Citation of Achievement Award in recognition of popularity in the field of Pop Music, measured by broadcast performances for the period from October 1, 1985 to September 30, 1986.

JAZZ

ON JAZZ

LESS THAN DIVINE–PolyGram Jazz has completed its massive program reissuing everything that the great Sarah Vaughan waxed for the Mercury label. Last year, you'll recall, PolyGram gave us three boxed sets covering the sessions from the '50s. Now, on two boxed sets of LPs or a single boxed set of CDs, comes "The Complete Sarah Vaughan on Mecury Vol. 4, 1963-1967." Like the first three sets, this material is spotty. Unlike the first three sets, this material is mostly spotty.

One thing is certain–Sarah Vaughan's singing is magnificent every inch of the way. But in the '60s Mercury attempted to cast her as more of a pop singer, and this set is stuffed with schmaltz and corn–Sarah singing covers of the hits of the day ("What the World Needs Now Is Love," "A Lover's Concerto," etc.), Sarah singing with the soupy Sevend Saaby Choir, Sarah singing something called "Dominique's Discotheque." Great singing, awful material, mostly awful arrangements.

There is some fine Sarah here however, some of the finest available. "Sassy Swings the Tivoli" was a delightful live LP, recorded in Copenhagan, produced by Quincy Jones, and featuring only la Vaughan and her trio. In "Volume 4," we not only get the original ten songs from the LP, but an additional 22 numbers never before available in the States (some of it has been out in Japan). That, and a nice pair of dates originally released as "It's a Man's World" and "Sassy Swings Again," are exceptionally worthwhile. The rest of it has its moments, but only Sarah Vaughan completists are really going to find very much other divine material in here. Still, completeness is the key and, for that, PolyGram Jazz and Kiyoshi Koyama, who put all of the sets together, deserve another deep bow. PERUGIA–The good folks from Italy's Umbria Jazz Festival, which takes place in the lovely town of Perugia, recently threw a fancy-schmancy party at the Whitney Museum here in New York to unveil the line-up for this year's festival. At the July 10-19 festival will be, among others, Wynton Marsalis, Pat Metheny, Ahmad Jamal, Gil Evans, Cab Calloway, Miles Davis, Branford Marsalis, the Manhattan Transfer, George Benson, Antonio Carlos Jobim, Stan Getz, Michael Brecker, Gary Burton, Tito Puente, Celia Cruz, Stanley Jordan and Dexter Gordon. At the party were, among others, Sting, Roy Haynes and Hilton Ruiz (who performed).

UNDER THE SKY–The good folks from Japan's "Select Live Under The Sky Festival" recently threw their own fancy-schmancy party in town, at the Parker-Meridien, to announce their line-up for this summer. This festival will tour–hitting six cities (five in Japan and Hong Kong) for nine performances between July 25 and August 8. On tap for the tour are groups led by Miles Davis, Wayne Shorter, Jack DeJohnette and Steve Gadd (all on hand for the party), the World Saxophone Quartet (a third of whom were on hand for the party), and something called SXL, led by Bill Laswell (who skipped the party). Also schmoozing by the Parker-Meridien pool were Sonny Rollins, Herbie Hancock, Tony Williams, Roberta Flack, and other movers and shakers.

YOCK IT – Herbie Hancock and CBS Records Group president Walter Yetnikoff laugh it up at a recent CBS gala.

DEXTERITY–Dexter Gordon, who hasn't performed in public in years, will not only be touring Europe this summer, but will be appearing with the New York Philharmonic at Avery Fisher Hall, June 4-6, in an evening called "Gershwin & Ellington: American Masters." Dexter will be playing David Baker's "Ellingtones: A Fantasy for Saxophone and Orchestra." And speaking of the Academy Award nominee for Best Actor, Dexter copped the Italian equivalent of the Oscar recently for his performance in Round Midnight.

BOPPING AROUND–Bobby McFerrin will be hosting VH-1's New Visions on May 24...Hank Crawford and Jimmy McGriff will set sail on the DeWitt Clinton, May 31, the first in a series of jazz boat rides out of N.Y.'s South Street Seaport benefitting WBGO-FM...JazzVideo International has just released a VHS master class with bebop pianist Walter Bishop, Jr., who discusses and demonstrates fourths, jazz comping, chord voicings, etc., and even recites a little poetry. Tapes are available for $34.95 by writing to Suite 33-Q, 400 W. 43rd St., New York, NY 10036...ECM has just issused a CD compilation, "ECM Spectrum Vol. I," a sampler containing 68 minutes of various ECM stuff...Tickets are now on sale for the JVC Jazz Festival/New York at the various box offices around town or by calling Ticketron...Two more new jazz books are available (I'll get to them at length in a couple of weeks): a paperback reprint of The Jazz Word by Dom Cerulli, Burt Korall and Mort Nasatir ($9.95, Da Capo) and The Music: Reflections On Jazz and Blues by Amiri and Amina Baraka ($22.95, William Morrow).

Taylor in absolute peak solo piano form: brilliant, inventive, explosive, virtuosic and surprisingly subtle and spatial. Sublime!

BRIGHT MOMENTS–Max Roach Double Quartet–Soul Note SN 1159–Producer: Max Roach

REFLECTIONS IN BLUE–Sun Ra Arkestra–Black Saint BSR 0101–Producer: Giovanni Bonandrini

The wild, wooly, always unique, usually swinging Arkestra in a wild, wooly, unique and swinging album of pithy originals and prismatic versions of standards. Simultaneously down to earth and out in the cosmos.

NEW LIFE–David Murray Octet–Black Saint BSR 0100–Producer: David Murray

The prolific tenor saxophonist returns to his best format: the Octet. Like the three previous Octet dates, this is a stomping session with a foot in the past, a foot in the future, and its body firmly in the present.

ALBUM ALLEY

BEVERLY HILLS COP II SOUNDTRACK–Various Artists–MCA
Destined to be heard all summer long on Top 40, AOR, and B/C radio. Yet another collection of star-studded, play it safe soundtrack albums, this time featuring the blistering lead single "Shakedown" by Bob Seger (#1 most added this week), as well as performances by The Pointer Sisters, The Jets, George Michael, and Ready For The World. What - no Kenny Loggins?

ALL BY MYSELF–Regina Belle–Columbia
Strong debut LP from the critically acclaimed vocalist Belle, who easily ranks up with Whitney Houston as one of the more powerful female vocalists anywhere. Her first single, "Show Me The Way," is currently resting at #37 on the B/C chart, and shows upward momentum. Hot tracks include the sexy groove "So Many Tears" and the soulful ballad "After The Love Has Lost Its Shine."

HIGH PRIORITY

BOB CATANIA
Island
"World, Shut Your Mouth" established a strong base for Julian Cope at Top 40, Album, and Alternative radio. With "Eve's Volcano" we are looking to broaden his base with a track I feel has a much better sound for hit radio. A video is now in production and we look for Julian to tour here with his amazing live show beginning in June.

VINCE FARACI
Atlantic
John Astley, a respected producer in his own right of Pete Townshend and Marilyn Martin, is hot in his first solo effort, "Jane's Getting Serious." It is one of the most played records at College and Alternative radio, and AOR stations in New York, Providence, San Francisco, Madison, and Eugene are also getting serious about the record. MTV has picked it for a "Hip Clip Of The Week" starting May 13. We're hoping radio will give us a break on this record because every station testing it is getting Male and Female phones and Top 5 requests.

Strong Persuading ... Blues master Robert Cray is shown here backstage at The Capitol Center in Md., giving away an autographed guitar to a lucky WWDC-FM listener as part of a promotional tie-in with International Guitar Month. Pictured from left are Cray, DC-101 Promotion Director B.J. Cohen, and winner Dave Violette.

ON THE CIRCUIT

Hitline USA: "Hitting the Highway with the Hottest Headliners" ... On Sunday, May 10, "Pepsi Hitline USA" launched their biggest promotion ever. The promotion, titled "Hitting the Highway with the Hottest Headliners" is giving one lucky winner and a guest the chance to see three major rock concerts over the Memorial Day weekend. The whirlwind weekend's activities will begin at Genesis' Los Angeles Dodger Stadium concert on Friday, May 22; then on Saturday, the winner will fly to Miami, Florida to attend Bryan Adams' show at the Sportatorium, concluded with a Sunday night stopover in Detroit for Billy Idol's concert at the Pine Knob Amphitheater. Bryan Adams announced the winner of the contest when he guested on the nationally syndicated Hitline on May 10.

Big Apple Cowpokes In For A Treat ... On July 1, the impending departure of country mainstay WHN/New York will leave the nation's largest market without a country outlet. But NBC Radio has the solution - its nine year A/C formatted WYNY-FM will change formats to Country, filling a major void on the Gotham City airwaves. Says NBC Radio Pres Randy Bongarten, "By becoming the city's exclusive country station, YNY will fill an important need in the market. This will mean that New York's country music fans won't miss a beat in hearing their favorite stars and songs." Yeeha ...

WNEW-FM Broadcasts "Live From London" ... WNEW-FM will broadcast the Fourth Annual "Live From London" show, hosted by Scott Muni, the week of June 1-5. This year's show coincides with the 20th anniversary celebration of both WNEW and the release of The Beatles' "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band" album. (By the way, in recent polls of both readers and respected critics, The L.A. Times found Sgt. Pepper's to be the number one rock album of all time. What a surprise, eh?). With this in mind, WNEW has decided to broadcast the show from London's famed Abbey Road Studios, where The Beatles' recorded "Sgt Pepper" and many other of their records. Past "Live From London" shows have featured (to name a few) David Bowie, Elton John, Sting, Steve Winwood and Pete Townshend.

"Summer's Here And The Time Is Right" ... With summer upon us, radio is gearing towards seasonal programming - let's take a look. First-up: CBS' "The Spirit Of Summer" is about to launch its 16-week run with a special three-hour Memorial Day weekend broadcast airing Friday through Monday, May 22 - 25. Kris Eric Stevens is your host on the journey through the music of recent summers past, with an emphasis on the sounds of the 60's and 70's ("with a splash of the 80's"). Featured artists throughout the summer include Linda Ronstadt, The Beach Boys and Elton John plus an exciting assortment of special guest interviews including Sting, Phil Collins, Bob Dylan, Paul Simon and Simply Red. ... Also ready is United Stations debut of "Dick Bartley's Solid Gold Summer Hits." The program, set to air over the Memorial Day weekend, will feature a bevy of classic summer hits as well as interviews with the artists responsible for many of the tunes. Among the classics that the listener can expect are Mungo Jerry's "In The Summertime," The Beach Boys' "California Girls" and Jan & Dean's "Surf City." Keep an open ear for these and other specials and remember: "Tan, don't burn." Catch a wave, baby.

Rockline welcomes Tom Petty & The Heartbreakers ... Tom Petty & The Heartbreakers recently joined Rockline in celebrating their sixth anniversary on the air. Petty and the boys discussed their new album "Let Me Up (I've Had Enough)" with the show's host Bob Coburn, as well as taking calls from listeners all over the states. Pictured at the taping, Top Row (from Left to Right): Tony Dimitriades, Lookout Management; Tina Zimring, Mike Correia and Rachel Perkoff of Global Satellite Network; Cindy Tollin, Produce/Rockline; Sharron Sanchez and Jimmy Rash, Global Satellite Network; Howard Gillman, President/Global Satellite Network; and Mark Felsot, Associate Producer/Rockline. ... Or Have You Ever Been Experienced? ... Compact Disc manufacturers' Rykodisc have introduced a a radio promotion with AOR/Classic Rock stations entitled the "Ultimate CD Experience." Each station is serviced with 10 copies of Ryko's new "Jimi Hendrix: Live At Winterland" CD to giveaway over the air, plus a list of Hendrix trivia questions. Among the many stations involved in the promotion are: WMMR/Philadelphia, WZLX/Boston, KLSX/Los Angeles and WCXR in Washington.

Corporate Climbers ... WBGO-FM ("Jazz 88") has announced the appointment of Anna Kosof as the station's new General Manager; at KISS-08 (WXKS-FM), Dale Dorman has recently been named the stations Assistant Program Director; Kendall Adkins has been appointed Promotions Director at KDKB Radio in Arizona; ABC Radio networks have appointed Ron Rivlin to Manager, Affiliate Relations of the network's Rock Radio division; Lisa Taylor has joined WYNY/New York as Evening and Weekend Personality; the National Association of Broadcasters have appointed Thomas Kushak to a vacated board of directors seat; Daniel Charleston has been promoted to Vice President/General Manager of KHAT AM/FM in Lincoln, Nebraska; Garrett Bergmark has joined the sales department of KFI/KOST Radio in Los Angeles; and Nancy C. Widmann has been named Vice President, CBS owned radio stations. She will be responsible for the Division's seven AM and 11 FM radio properties.

The Beatles On USP ... United Stations Programming Network will debut "The Beatles Silver Anniversary Specials" series airing over eight summer weekends, beginning with the weekend of July 11. Each program will feature a different theme, ranging from individual profiles of each Beatle to such shows as "The Fab Four On Film" and "The Beatles: Captured Live."

Urban Shootout In The Windy City ... Look for an interesting showdown in the Chicago Urban market race as Lee Michaels returns to program WBMX against market leader WGCI. Michaels leaves KMEL/San Francisco after taking it from 3.7 to 4.4 in one book to the top contemporary spot in the Bay Area ratings. The fun began for real May 15 - keep an ear out.

THE TERM CHARTBREAKER REFERS TO THE HIGHEST DEBUTING LP IN THE TOP 100.

THE BEAT

JACKSON FORMS RAINBOW- During the 70s' the name Chuck Jackson was synonymous with consistently writing and producing hit records. Chuck along with his writing/producing partner the late Marvin Yancey carved an indelible mark on the music industry. They were authors of the many gold and platinum selling records for Natalie Cole. You are probably asking, what has Chuck been doing the last few years? He took a brief hiatus from the entertainment business to spend time with his family. Having spent some time relaxing and enjoying life, let me say this mega talented songwriter/producer/artist has returned and will be bigger than he ever was. Jackson, a modest individual has been described by many of his peers as an absolutely brilliant man. Chucks' career not only saw him enjoying success as a writer/producer. He was a member of one of the most successful groups of the 70s, The Independents, who scored a massive hit (gold) with Leaving Me. By the way Chuck I would love to hear a remake of that great song. Jackson along with his partner Ron Barrows recently formed their own company Rainbow's Inn Production. Chuck recently cowrote and produced the chart-climbing hit single for Capitol recording artist 4 X Four titled Want You For My Girlfriend. Soon to be released on Capitol is another potential hit co-written and produced by Jackson for Peggi Blu and Burt Robinson titled All The Way With You. He also mentioned some phenomenal forthcoming projects on some of the top artist in the business, who must remain nameless at this point. A very special Cash Box welcome back to Chuck Jackson one of the most brilliant writers/producers/artist of our time.

ACKLINS RECORDS FORMED- Independent record labels continue to via for their share of the billion dollar music business. The recently formed Acklins Records a division of Nassau Music Incorporated has hit the music scene running. Promotion and marketing will be handled by one of the top professionals in the business, Bob Ursery who will serve as vice president. Prior to his affiliation with Acklins' Records Bob held various positions with RSO, Fantasy and CTI. Cassandra Swayzer has joined the company as public relations executive. Tha company is receiving good response around the country to their initial 12-inch releases Babalay by King Errisson and Nice by Delaney. Early indications are this newly formed company will become a major musical force.

BAD DOING GOOD-Maxx Kidd, president of the Washington, D.C. based T.T.E.D. Records and creator of the now world famous go-go music has recently released a new single by Jesse James titled I Can Do Bad By Myself. Kidd indicated the initial response has been nothing short of sensational. When asked why he felt the response has been so good, Kidd was quick to respond, " the song has a message to which every one can relate." Kidd is also enjoying tremendous response to another potential smash by Big Tony And The T.F. Crew titled Back Doing What We Do Best. The music industry is still buzzing about the dynamite promotion Kidd did last year with his Good To Go single. Maxx is certainly a top business man who knows how to market and promote his product to the Maxx-i-mum.

LOUISVILLE'S MR. WONDERFUL-Ron Lewis, president of Mr Wonderful Records/Production Company based in Louisville, Kentucky is extremely excited and highly optimistic about the company's first release titled First On The Dance Floor by Jerry Green. Jerry acknowledged a strong interest and talent for music by age seven. Encouraged by his family this Louisville native began practicing on several instruments including lead and bass guitar, drums and keyboards. His close affiliation with church activities provided further growth through exposure to gospel music. After graduating from high school, Jerry began performing at local night spots in the Louisville area. Like many musicians wanting to perform and perfect his craft he went on tour with the USO. Ambitious and driven with the desire to succeed he has never lost sight of his goal to sing. He loves to sing and understands desire, hard work and a willingness to sacrifice are a must in any profession, music is no exception. He has participated and won many talent contest which assisted in landing him a special guest appearance on the famous WLOU Summer Fest Program in 1986. He recently appeared as an opening act for Roy Ayers And Ubiquity. Jerry believes, "Music is universal, and like the seasons ebb and flow, from depths to the peaks, building from a whisper to a crensendo, only to recycle. We all relate to music because all its variations are like a continuous ring and we all fall somewhere within this ring of no beginning, and no end, yet part of the whole."

MAJORS WATCH SAN JOSE- The believers number many (major record label executives) who are taking a serious look (close to signing) at the San Jose based seven piece self contained group, Protege.

AL BELL LEADS BY EXAMPLE-Edge Records president Al Bell has stepped forward to assume a position of "leadership by example" within the national black community on the subject of Aids, because, he contends, other acknowledged leaders are refusing. Their refusal, Bell believes, is based on a fear that by doing so they will be perceived as homosexuals or someone who condones or supports homosexuality. Bell, who is heterosexual, says, "The problem transcends such personal considerations." Bell says his research and statistical analysis has shown that Aids is 350 percent more common among black children under five years of age than white children. Among all children under the age of 13, 55 percent diagnosed as having Aids are black. The basic cause of Aids among these victims is a parent or parents with Aids or diagnosed "at-risk." Moreover, says Bell, studies indicate that 74 percent of the total number of heterosexuals diagnosed or reported to have Aids are black. And, 50 percent of the total number of females diagnosed or reported to have Aids are black.

HIGH PRIORITY

A High Priority Salute To James Alexander Program/Operations Manager WJLB Radio

Steve Gary-Music Director
KVET/KASE-Austin, TX

During his college years, Steve Gary decided he wanted a career in radio because of his love for music; he liked the thought of getting a job doing something he enjoyed. Radio seemed to be just that. In 1969, while attending Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, he got his first radio job, as an on-air DJ at Austin's KVET, working an all-night shift. He didn't mind the odd hours so much at the time, he says, because "I was involved in music and got to listen to music while I worked."

He stayed with KVET until 1970; then it was on to rock and roll station KDSX in Sherman. Soon after, he returned to country music, working as Music Director for KOKE-FM in Austin. At the time, the station had an innovative progressive country format, where country music was blended with "outlaw" country, "redneck" rock and "renegade" country, which were being made by people like Guy Clark, Riders Of The Purple Sage, and others-artists who weren't country enough to get airplay on mainstream country radio stations.

Although the progressive country format was successful in terms of gathering listeners, the audience was small and the station didn't show up well in ratings. In 1977, KOKE-FM changed to a full-time country format and Gary continued on with that station as Music Director until 1982.

That year, Steve Gary "came home" to KVET/KASE, as Music Director for both of the "sister" stations. 100,000-watt KASE-FM is mostly Cash Box Top 40 country, while KVET is a bit more traditional. "We go back farther for oldies on KVET," he says. "We might play Hank Williams, Sr., Bob Wills or Ernest Tubb, who wouldn't get played on KASE."

Although KASE leans more toward major established artists first, the station doesn't always wait for a song to be inside the Top 40, playing records right "out of the box". As for independent labels, KASE certainly gives them a break also. "From time to time we find something that we can really get behind that's independent," Gary says. "We've done very well with Adam Baker. We've played everything that he has done. It was a gamble that paid off for us, because his records came to be very much in demand with our listeners. They still call to request his music. We also have given shots to local artists."

As Music Director, the early part of Gary's week is spent taking the record promotion calls, talking to people from the labels who give him information about their current records, selecting the new currents to be added, and preparing the logs and charts. During the latter part of the week, he devotes time to oldies, re-carting them for play or locating oldies that the station's library is missing.

Gary says he prefers being Music Director over being an on-air DJ. "I did the on-air thing for twelve or thirteen years," he says, "and I really like this better. On-air was fun, but of course, on-air you are subject to working holidays and nights and odd hours, and I don't have to do that anymore."

What he enjoys most about his job is listening to the music. "It exposes me to a very broad spectrum of music. I'm hearing those successful chart records and also the obscure records as well, that probably won't chart, and I really enjoy that part."

Although he enjoys other types of music, Steve Gary plans to stay with country. "I love jazz and I like a lot of the rock and roll that's out," he says, "but country seems to be my home. Country's been very good to me."

AUDIO/VIDEO

NEW KIDS–New York-based Brighton Video, the new video arm of CorTech Communications, recently announced its official debut with a slate of home video documentaries ripe for Hollywood's 100-year anniversary. Included in the initial release package (ranging in suggested retail price from $39.95 to $59.95) are such Hollywood-oriented titles as Marilyn Monroe - Beyond The Legend, Grace Kelly - The American Princess, Steve McQueen - Man On The Edge, The Horror Of It All and Hollywood's Children - each from Wombat Productions - plus three other documentaries: Air Force One: The Planes And The Presidents, Song Of Survival, and Paucartambo - Inca River. With a firm belief in non-theatrical titles as the "next phase" in home video, the company plans to market its tapes through video wholesalers, mail order catalogs as well as directly to retailers, schools and public libraries. Future Brighton pricing is in the $39.95 - $99.95 suggested retail range.

COOL DUDES–From Touchstone Home Video this month comes Paul Newman and Tom Cruise in The Color of Money.

TIE-IN–Definitive heavy metal act Judas Priest makes its second venture into home video (the first being last year's certified gold clip compilation, Fuel For Life) with a 95-minute concert video, Priest Live, recorded during the band's most recent world tour, from CBS/Fox Video with a May 28 street date. The tape features 19 tunes. But wait, there's more! Judas Priest label Columbia Records is tying-in the video release with the release of a live record, audio cassette (the video includes four additional songs) and CD - to be promoted jointly.

HOME VIDEO REVIEW: The History of White People In America: Vol. II - MCA Home Video - $39.95 Once again, funnyman Martin Mull and writing partner Allen Rucker have devised a searingly adroit satire of white middle-American, middle-class values. The sub-territories covered here include "White Stress," "White Religion,""White Crime" and "White Politics." Directed with sparkle by second-timer Harry Shearer, this second installment in Mull's White People chronicles has all the bite of the first program, with less romp. Theme and characters are in clearer, more cohesive focus, and, as with the first tape, Mull and Rucker's observations are relentlessly acid. Granted, much of the humor of this tape is based on the novelty of its subject matter. Lampooning a majority has a built-in factor of surprise going for it, but more than that, Mull and Rucker take on white stereotypes with gleeful severity (a refreshing come-uppance, arguably enough, for a race infamous the world over for its bigotry and intolerance). All in good fun, ostensibly, though the dark side of the humor here is not much of a reach. White People II stays on the safe side of social criticism, even when detailing the corruption of small town white politics, where one-dimensional forces of evil and good (and impossibly naive) do battle. Perhaps the most scathing - and timely - spoof here is the segment on white religion, in which the white church (Protestant, of course, presumably Methodist) is depicted as ineffectual and money grubbing. The least effective segment overall, save for a superlative cameo by Eileen Brennan, is White Crime - the only truly weak and plodding and completely implausible piece. The art of this tape is Mull, Rucker and Shearer's talent for serving acerbic social criticism with a Brady Bunch veneer of frivolity. Given the hazards of tackling this subject - a potential for creating too gentle a spoof and a thinly-veiled promotion of white, middle American standards - White People II deftly avoids racial boosterism and offense to minorities (the one black couple we meet is better adjusted and more rational than their white counterparts). It succeeds in satirizing the norms of suburban white America with a vengeance.

Gregory Dobrin

THE RELEASE BEAT

From CBS/Fox Video this month comes Priest Live, a 95-minute concert video recorded during Judas Priest's most recent world tour. Suggested retail price is $24.98, in digital audio, HiFi stereo VHS and Beta ... From MCA Home Video in June, the stage-to-film drama 'night, Mother, starring Anne Bancroft and Sissy Spacek ($79.95, closed captioned, VHS Dolby HiFi and Beta HiFi) and the Martin Mull send-up of white, middle American values, The History of White People in America: Vol. II ($39.95, VHS Dolby HiFi digital stereo surround, Beta HiFi digital surround) ... Sony Video Software music releases for June include Late Night Romantics, a mood tape featuring romantic tunes from various recording artists ($19.95 suggested retail, HiFi stereo).

INTERNATIONAL

UK BUZZ

The resurgent PolyGram has maintained its growth, putting them in the top album sales slot for the first quarter of this year.

WEA was the number one singles company, moving up from third, and was second in the albums category. PolyGram was in second place for singles.

PolyGram's 17.7% album share was largely thanks to the success of The Phantom of the Opera original London cast album, helped along by Level 42's new "Running in the Family," and their stake with EMI and Virgin in the "Now, That's I Call Music" compilation.

On singles, PolyGram had "Down to Earth" from Curiosity Killed the Cat and "Heartache" from Pepsi and Shirlie as the quarter's fourth and fifth best sellers. PolyGram's biggest fillip came from associated label Polydor, which jumped from 17th to first position to make it the leading album label, with 7% of the market.

The cheering new for Epic was its rise to the top spot as leading label in the singles category, with 7%, rising from fourth last quarter. EMI and CBS maintained third and fourth positions, respectively, in the albums sector...

Cutting Crew's number one U.S. hit, "I Just Died In Your Arms Tonight," could not have been better timed for the new public Virgin Group's company report. Profits before tax for the six months up to January 31, 1987 were 16.1 million pounds, compared to 12.4 million pounds for the same period last year.

But music division profits dropped from a profit of 12.1 million pounds on a turnover of 65.6 million pounds over last year to an 11.5 million pound profit on a 77.2 million pound turnover for the same six-month period this year.

Virgin chairman Richard Branson's comment was: "A good performance overall with significant and encouraging turnover and profit contributions from our retail and vision activities."

The Financial Times was not so encouraging, emphasizing the slight fall in the music division's profits due to the lack of new releases, and warning of the company's "uncomfortable dependence on the artistic temperament."

Richard Branson will join Bill Graham as a keynote speaker at the eighth New Music Seminar, in New York in July. Branson will speak about this year's U.S. launch of Virgin Records...

Matt Johnson, who is The The, celebrates the group's eighth anniversary with the re-release of the single "Sweet Bird of Truth."

"Now that its subject matter may have become homogenized by time, it will hopefully get a fairer crack of the proverbial whip,"says Johnson. His deeply felt songs cover subjects from the growing clash between the West and Islam and the conflict between humanity and technology."

This all coincides with the release of Infected–The Book, based on his successful "Infected" album. The book features paintings by his brother, Andy Dog, photographs, and most of his lyrics since 1979. Johnson says he will now lay low until his next album is completed in three years time...

Morgan Khan has launched two new dance floor record labels and a recording studio. In March, Khan's Streetwave and Streetsounds group crashed with debts of 1.25 million pounds.

His new Dance Music label is releasing three albums, including "Streetsounds Hip Hop 16." The new Streetsounds Preview label will get out compilations of hot new dance singles, particularly U.S. imports. Khan says his financing is from outside the record industry...

Joan Collins caused nearly as big a stir as Lionel Richie when she went to see one of his Wembley Arena concerts. Spotted in the celebrity enclosure, Joan was stared at incessantly by a curious crowd as people aimed their cameras for a distant shot of her.

But even Joan's ego had to make way for the dazzling Lionel Richie when he got on stage in London for the first time in nine years.

All the stage gimmickry and razzmatazz that has wowed audiences on his world tour had the same effect on London.

With a stage that rises up and swings around, a piano with a mind of its own and some other neat effects, Richie provided some of the greatest technical feats ever seen in Wembley Arena.

He appeared out of the depths of the stage with the apt "Hello," and then forewarned everyone of the party about to begin with "All Night Long." His balladic, silky voice intercut with some tight funk from a band that must be the best, and fittest, America has to offer.

Richie's songs have a tendency to be schmaltzy, but he roughened up their edges for the live show on a stage that exploded–literally at one point–into a riot of activity.

Once "Easy" and "Truly" were out of the way, the party got moving with the Caribbean flavor of "Se La." Richie constantly keeps his antennae out to test the audience's mood. He communicates great humanity, carefully balancing showmanship with artistry.

One of the evening's most powerful moments came when he was stripped of the blasting band to sing and play "Lady" at the piano. That provided the mood contrast for the "Dancing on the Ceiling" finale. A brilliant, dizzying feat of music and spectacle that the biggest London West End production would envy.

TOKYO–According to the survey conducted by the JPRA (Japan Phonograph Record Association), total outlets of record-rental-business in Japan showed 3,010 as of April 15, 1987. Of these, 1,177 of them have been opened since April of 1986. These results indicate that the outlets of rental-record-business are on a steady increase.

According to the JPRA, the total sales of audio softwares (LP, tape and CD) in Japan as of March of 1987 showed 23,860,000,000 yen ($159,000,000), an increase of 4 percent over the comparable month last year. Breaking it down, CD indicated high growth of 43 percent in money while the analog album recorded a steady decrease of 32 percent from the comparable month of last year. Video software (disk and tape) were 7,409,000,000 yen 9$49,000,000), an increase of 113 percent over the comparable month of the prior year.

According to the survey conducted by Cash Box's Tokyo office, sales at the four main record dealers in April, 1987, in this country were up 10 percent over last year in April. All retailers surveyed reported without exception that high growth of CD was the main factor attributed to the sales increase. On the other hand, Akina Nakamori, one of Japan's most popular female singers and the Beatles were very prominent contributors to the result.

Frances W. Preston, president of Broadcasting Music Inc. (BMI New York), has awarded testimonials to Hatsutaro Suzuki, president of Toshiba-EMI-Music Publishing Co., Ltd. Hachidayi Nakamura, a composer, Koji Kusano, producer of Toshiba-EMI-Music Publishing, and Shinpeyi Matsuoka, a managing director of JASRAC (Japan's Association of Right of Authors and Composers and Publishers) at the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo on April 22, 1987 for a big smash of "Sukiyaki" in the USA.

NARM CONSUMER SURVEY–The National Association of Recording Merchandisers (NARM) is going to conduct of consumer research survey which will take place in the retail stores of NARM member companies in an attempt to provide them, the recording industry and distribution company executives with information pertaining to consumer purchasing habits relative to configuration (CD, cassette, LP), packaging, merchandising, quality, and perceived value of prerecorded music using various age groups and demographics.. Other questions will explore factors influencing a customer's store selection and purchasing decisions. The project, initiated by the NARM Retailers and Manufacturers Advisory committees as a part of the planning process for their annual Fall meeting, will be conducted between June 28 and July 11, 1987 in over 500 retail locations across the country. The questionnaire for the survey is being jointly developed by the marketing research departments of CBS Records and Capitol Records, following discussions with a group of retailers and manufacturers on April 27 in Los Angeles. Employees of NARM member companies will conduct the survey in all types of retail outlets, including mall, strip and free-standing stores. The possibility of including record and tape departments of outlets which are serviced by rack jobbers is being investigated. The Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA) will tabulate the data gathered with the results to be presented at NARM's Retail/Manufacturer Advisory Committee meeting which takes place September 28 to October 1, 1987 in San Francisco.

BUNNY AND BEATLES–Newly announced Playmate of the Year, Donna Edmonson, made in-store appearances at two Southern California based Music Plus Stores two sign copies of her new Playboy Video Centerfold which was released to coincide with the announcement of her selection. Miss Edmonson met close to 500 of her fans at both the Hollywood and San Gabriel stores on May 2nd...KLSX (FM 97.1) on air personality, Damien, delivered his broadcast live from the Music Plus store in Sherman Oaks on May 4th. The appearance kicked off a brand new Capitol Records/KLSX/Music Plus trivia contest commemorating the 20 year anniversary of the Beatles "Sergeant Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band" album. The contest, which ran May 4 to May 15, featured a 21 question entry with a grand prize of a six day trip to London and a tour of the Abbey Road studios with KLSX morning man, Phil Hendrie. In addition to his radio broadcast, Damien also invited listeners to come in and take part in a special album exchange. The first 97 to arrive got the opportunity to trade in a favorite warped or damaged LP or Cassette for a Music Plus gift certificate for a $8.00 ticket LP/Cassette or $14.99 CD...The 46 store chain which also owns City One Stop, is offering the forthcoming "Sgt. Pepper" CD, expected June 1, at a preorder price of $12.50.

CYMBIOSIS?–Just what is Cymbiosis? "The intimate living together of two dissimilar organisms in a mutually beneficial relationship" which is exactly what Cymbiosis, a unique "marriage" of a music magazine and a cassette tape, has accomplished. The brainchild of Ric Levine, a former disc jockey, music journalist and record store manager, this new and innovative combination magazine is geared toward audiences of progressive rock, jazz-rock, fusion and new age. A nice compact blister package for retailers, the magazine includes reviews, opinions and in-depth interviews with artists who are showcased on a high quality cassette tape. Levine hopes to have the package available in CD. "The idea behind Cymbiosis is to turn people on to innovative music they might be missing. Music that radio has ignored," says publisher/editor Levine. "For the first time, a music fan can make up his mind about an album by listening to two good tracks while he's reading an interview article about the artist." Levine, who developed the concept in 1985 in a restaurant, scribbling it on a napkin, has had a steadily growing response at retail where the magazine is being sold. Now in 37 states and 13 countries, Cymbiosis is carried in Tower, Peaches, Record Bar and Moby Disc as well as a number of distributors including Jem Records West, Global Pacific, Cornucopia and Levity, independent retail outlets and magazine racks. The largest share of readership/listenership has come from subscribers (write to 1222 Butterfield Road, West Covina, CA 91791, or call 818-919-TAPE). Now working on the fourth issue, Levine and his wife Deborah, publish the package, an obvious labor of love, out of their home. Artists and groups featured have included John Mclaughlin, Suzanne Ciani, Ray Lynch, Allan Holdsworth, Jeff Berlin, T. Lavitz, Mistral, Wishful Thinking and First Light among other new acts who are interviewed extensively and thoughfully by Levine and a growing stable of contributing writers. Shop Talk highly recommends that you check this promising product out.

TALENT ON STAGE

Reba McEntire

THE UNIVERSAL AMPHITHEATRE, L.A.–A near capacity crowd here enthusiastically welcomed the emerging queen of country music to L.A. recently, and a well-deserved welcome it was, too.

With a voice to rival any of country's best female singers (past and present), McEntire, aided by a superb collection of musicians, served up a hearty evening of weepy ballads, love songs, country rock and spiritual music during her hour-plus show.

From the joyously upbeat "Why Not Tonight" (from her most recent MCA LP, "What Am I Gonna' Do About You?") to a magical a capella delivery of Patsy Cline's "Sweet Dreams," McEntire might well have blown away half the adjoining Universal Studios Tour with her dynamic voice.

The red-headed singer, middle child of a veritable dynasty of McEntire singers (older brother Pake is signed to RCA, younger sister Susie sings gospel. Mom also sings), McEntire worked the amphitheatre stage with considerable country charm and humor. Admitting that several of the tunes in the show were quite sad, she announced the kind of tune without which no country show would be complete: a romantic song. The song was "Til It Snows In Mexico," from her "What Am I Gonna Do About You" LP (which she dubbed "Our romantic song of the evening"), sung with poise and strength.

"Sweet Dreams,"which closed the show, wasn't the only gem from the past McEntire trotted out. A roots-conscious delivery of "San Antonio Rose" - another Cline-recorded tune - was also given a fine outing. And while many of the songs on McEntire's program for the evening had slick, commercial arrangements, her voice (somewhat reminiscent of Cline's, especially in range) has a comfortable, down-home ring that no amount of pop arranging could make sound like a sell-out.

For this reviewer, McEntire provides a female, and slightly more modern angle to the wave of "new traditionalist" music currently hitting the country scene. Hers is a pure sound - commercial, yes (recorded digitally, yes) - but low on glitz and questionable stabs at pop crossover. If there is an overriding impression other than the wonder of her voice to be had from her show, it's that Reba McEntire is the real thing. The evening included no Las Vegas camouflage.

As shows go these days, hers was refreshingly simple. Things got a mite unconvincing only during a flimsy jag into the mid-'60's pop sound with a limp country rocker called "Sycamore Park."The song and its staging were out of place in McEntire's otherwise unaffected show.

Tableau endings to most tunes provided an effective, understated answer to overblown staging.

McEntire was well supported by her band, especially the dramatic percussion of drummer Steve Short, which gave an extra edge to such hit McEntire ballads as "What Am I Gonna' Do About You" and last year's smash "Whoever's In New England." Richard Solomon's fiddle and Donnie LaValle's peddle steel were also of special note. Back-up singer Susie Hoskins provided ample vocal fill-ins.

McEntire's show was opened by Warner Bros. recording act the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, featuring ex-Eagles guitarist Bernie Leadon. The veteran group, making renewed headway in the country arena after 20 years in the business, delivered a diverse set of modern country tunes.

Concrete Blonde

WHISKEY-A-GO-GO, L.A.–Hollywood's famed Whisky was packed to the rafters April 30 for the long-awaited return of L.A.'s own Concrete Blonde, a three-piece band of gypsies who are aggressively redefining the edge of the lost punk spirit.

From the lazy, loping chording of "True" (a recent AOR hit) to the speed-metal thrash of "Your Haunted Head;" from the acoustic vulnerability of "You're The Only One" to the riveting energy of "Still In Hollywood," this band's debut I.R.S. album is nothing less than brilliant. It is an exercise in many genres but impossible to pigeonhole. The only common thread running throughout Concrete Blonde's work to date is a profound and refreshing insistence upon doing things their way. This is evident in both their music and their stage personas.

In the live setting, especially one as intimate as The Whisky, the band's assets are easily identifiable. Lead singer and bassist Johnette Napolitano is the chief focus of attention, sporting her black, fashionably ragged clothes and recently coifed Mohawk. She can evoke images of Wendy O. Williams or Chrissie Hynde, but her frequent smile belies the hard-as-nails exterior. Her vocal integrity paints a coat of singular sincerity on the surface of each song, and thus the listener feels the kinship that the best artists can create.

Concrete Blonde is much more than a one-woman show, however. Much like the early incarnations of The Pretenders, the band performs live and on vinyl as a harmonious unit, each playing off the others' strengths. Drummer Harry Rushakoff is the ace in the hole. His masterful fills and dead-on chops comprise the dangerous substructure of Concrete Blonde's powerful sound. He is a man in complete command of his instrument, and through his mastery the band's eclectic sense of composition is given the luxury of consistant rhythmic moorings.

Guitarist Jim Mankey rounds out the trio. Less flamboyant onstage, his guitar is nonetheless the primary vehicle for delivering the musical message.

The band's primal power was evident early in this evening's set. One of the LP's better cuts, "Dance Along The Edge," delivered all of the promise of the vinyl version and more, with intensity building from verse to verse and finally crashing down in a vicious climax. George Harrison's "Beware Of Darkness" was also treated exquisitely, and one could sense that this band is ready for bigger stages to conquer.

Concrete Blonde's ability to effectively translate different styles of rock was demonstrated in the new songs unveiled at The Whisky. The best was the tight, strong "Run, Run, Run," powered by the thundering interplay of Mankey and Rushakoff. The other end of the spectrum came late in the show when Napolitano sat down solo with an acoustic guitar for the introspective "Little Conversations." These new numbers bode well for upcoming Concrete Blonde product.

The undeniable highlight of the set, however, was the rowdy rave-up "Still In Hollywood," which Napolitano prefaced by commenting on the song's ability to transcend borders and nationalities. This is appropriate, for it is the song's gritty, yet optimistic, look at downtrodden city life that endears it to the listener. Its imagery captures perfectly the seamy side of Tinsel Town. The band's inspired rendition, with the torrid force of the verses leading into the shout-along chorus, brought chills to this reviewer.

Many local music observers have labelled Concrete Blonde the most important Los Angeles band since X, and with performances like this one, it is easy to see why. In a town inundated with passionless haircut/glam bands, they are a most refreshing alternative. If they can manage to avoid the dreaded sophomore slump associated with "The Next Big Thing" tag, they will be something to watch (and listen to) for quite a while to come.

The Stranglers

HOLLYWOOD PALLADIUM, L.A.–Although the music of this British quartet has evolved considerably over their influential 12-year career from their punky beginnings to a more polished, melodic frame, make no mistake–the Stranglers still pack the same forbidding lyrical landscapes.

Their first performance here in over three years, the hour and a half long show was, for the most part, satisfying and at times engaging. Providing a generous cross-section of their sizable catalog from "No More Heroes" to five selections from their latest offering, "Dreamtime," the band, which still has its original members–vocalist/guitarist Hugh Cornwell, vocalist/bassist Jean Jacques Burnel, keyboardist Dave Greenfield and drummer Jet Black, sound more polished and self assured than ever.

Assisted by a three-piece horn section, the band powered through such early rockers as "Down In The Sewer," "Tank," "Peaches," "Bring On the Nubiles," which took on new proportions with the addition of horns. Unfortunately, the acoustics here have always left something to be desired and at times the horns came across sounding muddy as did the band itself. Although the festival-standing ballroom was nearly packed, it would have been better to hear the band in a more intimate setting. Because of the size of the Palladium, one of the Strangler's distinguishing trademarks, keyboards, at times during earlier material, sounded a bit shrill, yet later material which relies on more of a synthesized sound, came across much more cohesive.

Upon reflection, the Stranglers are one of the few early punk/post-punk outfits still around, and this performance magnifies their importance as an influential musical force. Cornwell and Burnel have always been interesting vocalists but their delivery was not quite as rough-hewn on new material such as the lilting "Always The Sun," the bouncy "Shakin' Like a Leaf," and the sarcastic jab at fame in the U.S., "Big In America," yet it was still a pleasure to hear such classic grungy, menaces as "Nice 'n' Sleazy," "Bring On The Nubiles," "Peaches" and "Toiler On The Sea."

Although the band has been popular in the U.K. and Europe since their inception in 1975, success here has eluded them. (Maybe an impetus for "Big In America) Perhaps the attention that has been given their new LP, including a modest amount of airplay of the catchy single "Always The Sun," prompted them to play here. Since their last two albums–"Aural Sculpture" and the new one, their sound has become increasingly more accessible which could appeal to a wider audience. The arrangements are more complex giving the band a more modern sound and the addition of horns has given them a fuller sound.

The crowd, which I expected to be largely the doom and gloom, black-attired variety, was unusually mixed with teeny boppers, collegiate types, punks and the gothic ones. Sad to say, for a band who is still producing meaningful, textured music, albeit, dark pop music which could find a larger audience with some radio play, with their name and connection to the punk era, it is unlikely that many CHR or AOR radio programmers or mainstream America who listens to it, will even give them a try.

COUNTRY

HIS HIGHNESS, THE T-NESS!

In the quandry as to which musical category he best fits, perhaps the most important assessment is that T. Graham Brown is a walking celebration of the human experience. "He makes people feel good when he walks in a room," sometime co-writer John Jarrard says of his fellow Georgian. "He really makes people feel good when he walks on a stage."

A true original, singing what is perhaps best described as country soul the way only he can do, T. Graham is flashy and full of self-confidence. Whether on stage or record, he is a proven showman, deftly backed by the Hard Tops, one of the hottest bands on the touring circuit today.

As a follow-up to his highly successful debut LP, Brilliant Conversationalist brings forth a new array of blues and rock oriented country sounds, embellished once again by the hot guitar of Nashville session-man Brent Rowan. For his album, T. and producer Bud Logan returned to Muscle Shoals Sound Studio in Sheffield, Alabama where much of his previous album was recorded.

The new album showcases more of T. Graham the songwriter, collaborating with various hit-making songsters on five tracks-"The Last Resort," "R.F.D. 30529," "Walk On Water," "Talkin' To It," and "The Past Ain't What It Used To Be." Also included, is a remake of the hit Steve Cropper/Otis Redding song "Sittin' On The Dock Of The Bay" and the Dave Loggins tune, "Anything To Lose."

"It must be human nature to label things," comments T., "but the best compliment I ever get from anyone at a show is 'You don't sound like anybody.' When people really press me for what to call my music, I've gotten to where I say 'It's Otis Redding meets George Jones.'".

The blend of whatever it is that is T. Graham Brown has been a long time brewing. While in school at the University of Georgia, in the early '70's, he wowed 'em in the Holiday Inn lounge at night with beach music. His "David Allan Coe Period" followed, manifested by touring the Southeast as T. Graham Brown and REO Diamond. Then there was T. Graham Brown and Rack Of Spam, tuning in tighter on what was to come. "That was an R&B band," he says. "Van Morrison's 'Brown Eyed Girl' and John Fogerty's 'Green River' were the only white music we did."

In 1986, T. put his current band together. "I wanted to call these guys Rack Of Spam," he laughs, "but they wouldn't go for it. They decided on The Hard Tops as a band name, but they did go and have a Spam can key goldplated for me. I would almost bet that it's the only one in the world," he beams, holding it aloft.

The rest of the story, as they say, is history. During the first year in Nashville-1982-he got into singing demos for various publishing companies and was signed to CBS Songs as a songwriter. From local jingles and radio ID's, he has graduated to national campaigns for McDonalds, Kraft, and Coca Cola. This activity led to his being signed to Capitol Records following an expansion of the Capitol/EMI America division in Nash-

ALBUM REVIEWS

JANIE FRICKIE–After Midnight–(Columbia C 40666)

Janie Frickie added an "i" to her name and an "ear" to her listeners when we reviewed "After Midnight". Frickie comes through with "throaty" vocals on most ballads, such as "I Hurt". The selection of songs seems determined to make this an easy-listening country album. "Teach Me How To Forget" is a standout song. It is strongly constructed, with exceptional lyrics.

OUT OF THE BOX

DOLLY PARTON, LINDA RONSTADT, EMMYLOU HARRIS (Warner Bros. 7-28371-A) Telling Me Lies (4:08) (Chappell-ASCAP/Firesign-PRS) (L. Thompson, B. Cook) (Producer: G. Massenburg)

"The Trio" is back again. Three great voices blending well to bring us an easy going country song. The melodic composition, written by Linda Thompson and Betsy Cook, is well-suited for the ladies. How can someone "scold" the listener so gently? The very mellow bass sound, combined with light strings, makes this a soothing arrangement. George Massenburg gives the production perfect highlights and an outstanding mix. Dolly, Linda, and Emmylou have captured our hearts once again.

FEATURE PICKS

KATHY MATTEA (Mercury 888 574-7) Train Of Memories (2:50) (Goldline-ASCAP) (J. Hinson, A. Byrd) (Producer: A. Reynolds)

Kathy's "husky voiced" presentation fits perfectly into this train song. Harmonies are good, and the pickin' is great. The tempo gets your whole body moving right along with the "train". Mournful sound, but not overdone.

THE WRAYS (Mercury 888 542-7) You Lay A Lotta Love On Me (3:06) (Stan Cornelius-ASCAP) (D. Heavener) (Producer: S. Cornelius)

Harmony lovers will love this harmony! Our review panel surely did! Spanish "horns" arrangement moulded into a good country production by Stan Cornelius. Vocals are up-front where they should be. Super song by David Heavener. Watch this one climb.

GLEN CAMPBELL (MCA-53108) The Hand That Rocks The Cradle (3:05) (Contention-SESAC) (T. Harris) (Producers: J. Bowen, G. Campbell)

Glen gives us a herat-felt vocal, and the arrangement is well produced. It's good to hear a song dedicated to mothers in this manner. Well-placed harmony highlights. This release should be widely accepted by listeners.

DUNN MIXING? MTM's Holly Dunn (left) chats with Sharon (center) and Cheryl White at Master Mix's mixing board after the sisters put harmony vocals on Dunn's "Little Frame House", a self-penned cut from her new "Cornerstone" album.

If you have noticed some printing errors in recent Cash Box issues (and I'm certain you have), we offer our apologies. Just a word of explanation to let you know what has caused the disruption in our normal routine: you see, we have been suffering some growing pains. Our Hollywood offices recently relocated into new quarters, and we have been through some unavoidable "moving" problems. Look forward to future issues, however! Cash Box will be as you have every right to expect it to be: organized, accurate, and dependable. We have known for some time that this transition period was coming. Now, we have all suffered through it. It's time to look for the "good". Our sincere thanks for bearing with us. We appreciate your understanding.

DEL REEVES AND DR. RUTH...Nashville country boy, Del Reeves, is currently singing the praises of Dr. Ruth, the controversial TV sex therapist. The Grand Ole Opry star's latest record release, "Dear Dr. Ruth", carries Reeves' message that there is a need for greater sex education among the nation's youth. News of the singer's latest Playback Record release reached King Features, syndicators of the popular "Ask Dr. Ruth" call-in TV program, and has resulted in Reeves being booked for a guest appearance. And, Nashville newspapers recently reported that Dr. Ruth Westheimer may return the favor by appearing on the Grand Ole Opry as Del's guest.

Atkins and M. Archer. Yep, you guessed it! That's Chet Atkins and Margaret Archer. This writer called Chet's Nashville office just to be sure. From the information obtained, Chet and Margaret wrote the song several months ago. With the recent "unholy wars" publicity, Ray remembered the song and jumped on it with perfect timing, which is another one of Ray's talents..being the "firstest with the mostest".

INDIE INK...Kathy Edge of NSD Records has been selected by the Country Music Association to perform during Fan Fair '87, an event so-sponsored by The Grand Ole Opry. ville during 1984.

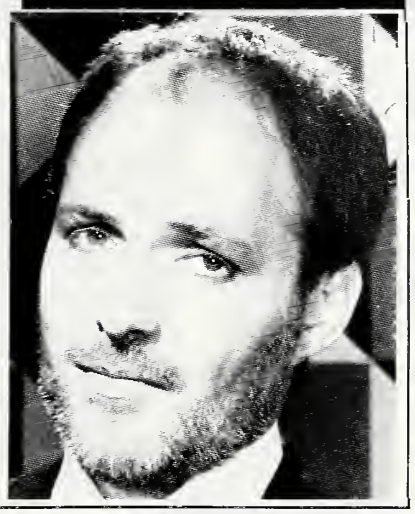
"Drowning In Memories," the first single, went to #39 on the charts; his signature song, "I Tell It Like It Used To Be," made Top Ten and brought out an album promptly; "I Wish I Could Hurt That Way Again" got to Top Five; his fourth single, "Hell And High Water," (co-written by T. and Alex Harvey) was his first #1 record, laying a foundation of promise for "Don't Go To Strangers" and an armfull of strong potentials in his second album, Brilliant Conversationalist.

"I Tell It Like It Used To Be" ignited the explosion that had smouldered all along. It came at the beginning of 1986 and brought him an invitation to play the New Faces Show of the Country Radio Seminar, a long-established harbinger of hot careers. Among many other opportunities, he was asked to appear at Alabama's June Jam and to open for Kenny Rogers from June to December. His 1987 schedule has 150 Kenny Rogers dates on it.

"I understand that that's NOT the norm in this business, so I'm grateful for this opportunity to tour with Kenny and grow from this. Maybe, by 1988, I can be a middle act like Ronnie Milsap is on these dates. At whatever point the people out there make it possible, I'll headline. I want to be as big as...well, as big as T. Graham Brown can be!"

COUNTRY INDIES

INDIE SPOTLIGHT



BILLY VERA AND THE BEATERS (Rhino 74407) Hopeless Romantic (4:02) (W.B. Music/Vera-Cruz-ASCAP) (B. Vera) (Producers: J. Wexler, J. Johnson)

Finger picking and a fine vocal hit you right away. Seems unique to find Billy Vera tossed to the top of the country pile, but country fans are going to identify with this fine song and singer. Our review panel was enthusiastic over Vera's performance.

INDIE FEATURE PICKS

LYNNE TYNDALL (Door Knob DK87-279) Looking For A Brand New Heartache (3:02) (Blood, Sweat, and Inc./Halsey Bros./Warner, Electra, Asylum/Duck Songs/Warner-Tamerlane) (P. Tillis, J. Buckingham) (Producer: P. McMakin)

Lynne Tyndall's rendition of this song, written by Pam Tillis and Jan Buckingham, was a solid Indie Feature Pick this week. This release features a driving tempo, and has commercial appeal. It should do well for Lynne.

BENJI WILHOITE (Playback PL1109) Take A Heart Like Mine (2:25) (Channel-ASCAP) (L. Dotson, S. Wooley) (Producers: J. Gale, J. Pierce)

This uptempo contemporary arrangement has some fine guitar work behind Wilhoite's smooth-enough vocal. The beat is certain to attract a lot of listeners. Good blend of background vocals.

THE DIAMONDS (Churchill CR 94102 A) Two Kinds Of Women (2:58) (Colgems-EMI-ASCAP) (C. Bickhardt) (Producer: B. Destocki)

Bass singer deluxe! Fine harmonies highlight this mid-tempo presentation. Slick saxophone featured in the "ride". Gospel feel on a country selection, and it works for The Diamonds.

DARK HORSE CONSENSUS

DON MALENA–Moon Walkin'–(Maxima MRC-1277)

Don Malena has one of those pleasing voices, which seems never to strain. This mid-tempo production by Joe Carroll has been receiving lots of votes from out in radioland. The very positive song, composed by Jackson Leap, is right down Malena's groove. Some stations betting on this darkhorse were: WASP, WKDY, WWRK, WMMK, KINO, and KFEQ.

Scholz (continued from page 15)

"These amps will give you virtually any sound," Scholz told Cash Box after the press conference. "And it's all foot-switchable or controllable from the guitar. All the different sounds (on 'Third Stage') require a lot of changes in processing: different equalizations, different amounts of distortion, etc. With these amps, we can make all those changes by ourselves on stage, controlled by the musicians."

"You'll hear everything on stage that you might have picked off the album," he says. "All the vocal harmonies, the guitar harmonies, etc."

The ability to duplicate the sounds on "Third Stage" was a key factor in Scholz's decision to hit the road again. "Last time I went on tour, it was with traditional amps," he says. "Attempting to get the amp to do what I wanted it to do was always very frustrating."

He says the show will feature all of the "Third Stage" album, as well as selected songs from "Boston" and "Don't Look Back," the band's other two albums.

Boston spent six years making sure "Third Stage" sounded exactly the way they wanted it – even if that meant inventing the technology to do it. Through Scholz's company, Scholz Research and Development (SR&D), he developed the highly successful Rockman, a miniature amp that produces guitar effects.

"Believe it or not, ('Third Stage') would have taken longer if I hadn't had the Rockman," he says. "(SR&D) gave me the equipment I needed to finish the record and at the tail end it gave me the bucks to fight CBS and at the same time finish the record."

Scholz started SR&D essentially to give himself a day job, since he says he writes his best material when he approaches music as a hobby, not as a full time job. "For me, if I were to approach music as a job I might be able to be a good guitar player or good keyboard player but as far as creativity I think that's impossible," he says. "I tried it once; that's the way I approached 'Don't Look Back' and I was unhappy with the record. I intentionally started a small company specifically so I'd have a place to work."

Scholz seems more comfortable in the studio or in his laboratory than on the road, but nonetheless on the road is where he'll be this summer. Tour dates include: Dallas June 20; Philadelphia June 25 and 26; The Meadowlands Arena in E. Rutherford, N.J. July 2 and 3 (only scheduled New York area dates); Detroit July 8; Los Angeles (The Forum) July 18 and 20; San Francisco July 24; Seattle July 31; Chicago/Milwaukee area August 7 and 8; and Worcester August 13 and 14 (only Boston area shows).

Bruford: A Candid Chat With Cash Box

Brian Kassan

LOS ANGELES–Cash Box caught up with, Bill Bruford, percussionist extraordinaire, in New York after a recent taping of the New Visions program on VH1 where he performed live and brought some clips of his new jazz quartet–Earthworks. Following last week's introductory piece, the following is the promised text of the interview with Bruford who discussed his new band and his past affiliations with considerable verve:

Cash Box: What is Earthworks all about?

Bill Bruford: I had a duo with Patrick Moraz for a while. That was fine, but what I was partly waiting for while that was going on, I was kind of having a sabbatical back on the acoustic drum set, waiting for the electronic set to get better, which it did really. In late '85 I returned to the electronic set with a vengeance because by this stage, it was MIDI (Musical Instrument Digital Interface) capable. It was possible to write tunes form the damn thing and here I was writing all these interesting rhythmic types of tunes which needed an outlet and concurrently in London, there was a kind of an explosion of the jazz scene. So I headhunted three of the brightest young guys from that department to make this album Earthworks which we feel is really a kind of British jazz album. It really isn't an American album. So it's essentially more of a move in a jazz way which has been something I think that I've probably been slow to get around to, but this is because of been very reluctant. I hate all this fusion stuff. This is not really my department, so Earthworks sounds very different from that kind of thing. The line up is acoustic saxophone by Iain Ballamy and an unusual combination of keyboards and E flat tenor horn–Django Bates–named after the famous guitarist–and upright acoustic bass, Mick Hutton and electronic percussion. It's a fairly soft, warm, very intimate acoustic top and bottom to the thing with the horns and the bass, whereas it has an electronic middle strata to it of drums and keyboards which often interlink and make rolling kind of patterns to the thing. So that's the kind of structural thing going on there. The source of the music is jazz and it's also British in the sense that there are flavors of north of England brass band music in there. the British musicians have that sort of connection with brass players and it has a sort of King Crimson escapee to it.

CB: How has your drumming approach changed or is it an extension of what you had been doing?

BB: Oh it's all an extension I think but it is very much dictated by this musical instrument manufacturer, Dave Simmons, who manufactures the electronic drums that I play and I work closely with him. this is exciting, but also very irritating because my instrument keeps changing. It is being designed, built and developed while I play it which can become very tedious. It's definitely one of these albums that's on the cutting edge of MIDI for drummers and it's for them, no doubt about that except you're not aware of that when your listening to it if you've never heard of MIDI. That's fine too.

CB: Why is it that the electronic drums weren't workable for you?

BB: It's just technology. It takes time for these thing to develop. The electric guitar was terrible for about 20 years until they got it together. the electronic drums started more or less as a toy and that was fine. they were just used on a one dynamic level for pop music which was okay, except when you really required them to respond and have more dynamics, then it becomes more complex altogether. A lot of research and development are working on this stuff now but there isn't that much demand for it.

CB: There isn't?

BB: Not really. I would consider myself a reasonably adventurous drummer, who is interested in electronics and therefore wanted to be as adventurous as possible, but the jazz players are still set on acoustic playing. The rock guys are still set with their machines and their kind of one-dimensional playing so that's that. I think there's a whole generation of British kids who have never heard an acoustic drum set. There really isn't a real call for a very expressive interpretive instrument which is what I want to improvise on.

CB: Does your electronic set scare away most jazz musicians?

BB: Yes it does and I'm in the kind of grey area between all of this. I can see all this going on. I respect the position of good player who says, "look, I can't play these things here." They're not developed enough and it's true, they're not. I'm playing them far too early. In ten years, they'll be great, but you've only got one life to lead and you can't wait around for ever. I'd rather form Earthworks, with the equipment such as it is, to get the best music I can out of it and meanwhile, by the time the second Earthworks album is out, there will be a second drum set. A lot of times you're asked your influence on a drum set and your standard answer is Ringo Starr or Billy Cobham or someone, but in fact there's no doubt that my biggest influence is Dave Simmons who manufactures the instrument I have to play.

CB: You mentioned that Earthworks is not fusion. How is it different?

BB: Well, you know we feel that Americans put a fair amount of emphasis on technical capability, almost too much. So you have this phenomenon of your best schools like GIT in Hollywood and Berklee in Boston turning out these wonderfully accomplished musicians. There must be a thousand a year coming out of the assembly line and they all have a fantastic mixolydian scale which they can play at 600 miles per hour. In England, we have no jazz schools at all. You simply can't learn the stuff. It's not that the young guys can't play, they can play like crazy, but it is not technically oriented. Technique is something you more or less try to disguise. Have you heard the old adage, the artist who concealed the art or perhaps you haven't, but you have now. (laughs) It's been in the back of my head ever since I can remember. But if you can see it being done, I don't want to see it. You see what I mean. When a magician pulls a rabbit our of a hat, if you can see it coming, it's no fun.

CB: You are more interested in the sound and not how it's generated.

BB: Yes this is correct, That would be a fair way to put it. Of course, there is improvising in a fairly traditional mainstream sense. It's still not quite like any other jazz that's around. The only thing I can say is that it's British.

CB: What are whirled instruments, mentioned on the LP?

BB: Whirled instruments are ones you whirl around your head and they make a sound in contact with the air. They're little strips of metal with retentioned rubber which vibrates and emits eerie types of harmonic sounds which in the States, I think the Arapahos, had bull roars, That's another kind of whirled instrument. It's a piece of wood you whirl around your head, it spins like crazy and emits a frightening sound which primitive cultures used to ward off the Devil or too keep evil spirits away. So whirled instruments, you will find, have been used by all cultures at one time except, I think, possibly the British and Northern Europeans.

CB: How do you record these instruments?

BB: That's easy. You get a big trunk and stand about six feet in the air and put two microphones about 30 feet apart stereo on a long leash of about four or five feet. you whirl these things, vibrating in the air and you get this horrendous sound in stereo which is great. That stuff occurs on a track called "the shepherd is eternal." We needed a kind of very timeless sound which these primitive instruments produce for you. It's jazz, but you can begin to tell that it smells funny.

CB: When will you tour here?

BB: We're hoping to get around June or July, but I can't promise. I think it's 95 percent likely.

Around The Route

by Camille Compasio

We've been hearing a lot of favorable comments from both the operating and distributing levels of the trade regarding the quality and earining power of some of the equipment various manufactureres have been putting to market. Well, as we get more into spring, and based on the schedule of distrib meetings being hosted by the factories throughout the month of May and into early June -- there's more product to come! For openers, as Cash Box went to press, Capcom was holding its distrib gathering at the Marriott Hotel Philadelphia Airport, and unveiling some new pieces. On May 29, it will be Sega's turn to invite distribs out to The Westin O'Hare in Chicago to attend their meeting and presentation. Among the products being showcased is the new "Alien Syndrome" (originally introduced at ACME '87) with updated programming, in a dedicated upright cabinet (and from what we hear it's been testing very well). Also heard that another "Super" machine was to be unveiled at this event. Next up, on June 2-3-4-, is the Atari meeting at the Mariner Inn on Hilton Head in South Carolina. Wonder what they'll be revealing!

Changes. Joe Dillon, formerly of Williams, recently joined the Bally organization in the position of vice president-pinball at Bally Midway. He's based at the Franklin Park, IL facilities. We happened to catch him on his first day at the new job -- and he told us he's elated to be a member of the team and is anxious to become involved with the current and future plans out there! . . . Jeff Walker, formerly of Premier Technology, has joined Data East USA. His main function will be sales and marketing of Data East Pinball products but he will also handle a limited amount of videos. Jeff will be based at the firm's new Melrose Park, IL facilities and will oversee all pinball distribution across the country and in Europe. He'll be wearing two hats, actually, one as director of sales & marketing (domestically) and the other as international vice president of sales and marketing. To both gentlemen -- our best wishes in your new posts!

A new addition. Cash Box felicitations to Mr. & Mrs. Stephen Kaufman on the arrival of their first son, David Joseph, who weighed in at 8 lbs. 13 ounces. The Kaufman offspring now number three -- including Stephanie who is 9 years old and Amanda, who is 6. These past several weeks have been pretty hectic for Steve (vice president at Konami) who was, naturally, very anxious about the baby's arrival and also very busy at the Konami facilities -- what with the tremendous demand for "Contra"!

Wow! Watch for the Rowe Video jukebox, equipped with the new Beta Hi Fi Stereo sound system! When you hear it, you'll agree it's "as good as anything, in terms of sound, that's on the market today," to quote Rowe veepee Joel Friedman. The model should be available for delivery almost immediately through factory distributors. What's the name of the new machine? As Joel said, "you can call it incredible!"

NAMA Contest For Best Brochures & Newsletters

CHICAGO - A nationwide contest for the best vending company sales brochures and company newsletters was announced by the National Automatic Merchandising Association, with the winners to be honored at the 1987 NAMA Convention in Philadelphia this coming October.

"NAMA members have been notified that they may submit samples of their sales brochures and internal or external newsletters, with judging by impartial experts scheduled for early summer," explained Walter W. Reed, NAMA director of public relations, who is organizing the contest.

"We will display the winning entries at our national convention and hope to motivate and assist other members to improve their company communications systems by this display," he added.

Reed said he plans to offer a "Guide To Better Sales Brochures and Newsletters" later this year.

All NAMA member operators are invited to submit entries and there is no charge for particitpating. Reed is requesting that five (5) copies of each item be submitted to the NAMA Chicago office, which is located at 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, IL 60606.

A similar contest conducted by NAMA in 1980 drew an enthusiastic response and Reed feels that many member firms have produced attractive new material since then.

Bally Reports First Quarter Results

CHICAGO - Robert E. Mullane, president and chairman of the board of Bally Manufacturing Corporation announced revenues, net income and earnings per share for the first quarter ended march 31, 1987, revenues were 389,767,000 as compared to $245, 22,000 in the same period last year. There was a $26,048,000 net loss compared to net income of $4,495,000 in the first quarter of 1986. The net loss per share was $.92 compared to earnings per share of $.17 reported a year ago.

Regarding the first quarter results Mullane said, "The net loss relates principally to the costs of purchasing the company's common stock from Donald Trump and the losses of the discontinued operations of the Richard Simmons exercise centers and the normal seasonal loss registered by our Six Flags subsidiary."

"As for our operations for the quarter,"Mullane said, "our Health and Tennis subsidiary had record revenues."

"Bally's casino hotels turned in an excellent performance for the quarter with Bally's Park Place increasing its revenues and operating income and Bally's Grand in Las Vegas recording major increases in both revenues and operating income over last year," he continued.

"Both the amusement game division and the gaming equipment segments of the company had good quarters with the exception of our Scientific Games subsidiary. Scientific Games continued to have severe competitive pressure in the on-line lottery business which they entered a year and a half ago," Mullane said. "This division, however, did receive the start-up and instant ticket contract for Montana, the first new lottery state to begin operations of the four which voted to institute statewide lotteries in 1986."

In concluding, Mullane said "Bally will benefit greatly this year from the efforts to put into place in the early part of this year a number of developments including the purchase of the Golden Nugget casino hotel in Atlantic City, the proposed initial public offering of Bally's Health & Tennis subsidiary and the pending sale of Bally's Six Flags subsidiary for $350 million proceeds. We expect very strong results from our casino operations over ther balance of the year as well as from our Health and Tennis subsidiary. In short, we feel all of these positive moves will benefit Bally in 1987 and beyond."

Bally Midway's 'Rescue Raider' Kit

"Rescue Raider", a new high-action, one or two player shooting video game from Bally Midway Mfg. Co., marks the re-introduction of the universal kit concept, successfully executed by the firm in past years. The universal kit package includes the necessary electronics and graphics to change almost any cabinet into a new game, according to the factory.

"Rescue Raider is set on an "enemy occupied" tropical island of forests, swamps and plains where several hostages are being held in a variety of stockades and fortresses. The player uses secret weapons and clues in order to locate and rescue them as quickly and as "unscathed" as possible. In the two-player mode, the players alternate each time one of them is destroyed by the enemy.

During game play, two joysticks are used -- one to move a high-tech, anti-tank vehicle that represents the player, and the other to shoot various weapons. There are four levels of playing difficulty and in each, a special weapon is provided for use against enemy tanks, land mines and armored cars. In addition to correct aiming, the player must adapt to each weapon against increasingly complicated barriers and an ever-more-aggressive enemy. The highly sophisticated weaponry includes a grenade launcher and cruise missiles, and the player's vehicle can become airborne through the use of a jet-pack.

The screen is vertically divided into two parts, the largest representing game play. About one-quarter of the screen's right side resembles a com puterized control panel with four different displays. One details the sector of the island presently occupied, with a flashing box to highlight player location and radar blips that pinpoint the positions of secret documents and hostages. The other three displays show the direction and distance to the next hostage, the special weapon in use and a record of hostages rescued and those not yet freed. Scoring (based on enemies destroyed, hostages rescued and secrets found) is shown at the top of the screen where a gauge also indicates fuel supply. Opportunities to refuel occur throughout the game.

Level of game difficulty increases with an upward movement on the island and the player continues to struggle to ward off the enemy, locate clues and weapons, circumvent walls and water, and rescue hostages. In order to progress to the next zone, the player must find, destroy and drive through a "gate" which separates each zone. A ship in the strongly protected harbor provides the final escape. There are 80 exciting screens of game play in Rescue Raider.

The explosions, gun and rocket sounds, and the grinding noise of heavy equipment are supported by a staccato of drumbeat, military-themed music and the military vehicles, armored cars, waterways and bridges are some of the most palpable, vivid (and sometimes, humorous) graphics on the market today.

Further information about the new game may be obtained through factory distributors.

DYNAMO TOURNEY-The Scoreboard Sports Bar in Houston was the site of the $5000 1987 U.S. Air Hockey Championships, sponsored by Scoreboard and Dynamo (manufacturer of the new Dynamo 'Air Hockey' table used in the competition), with backup sponsorship from Professional Air-Table-Hockey, U.S. Air-Table-Hockey Assn., USAA, KLOL-radio, CR Auto Wholesale, Games People Play and various local businesses. Tournament play took place on six of the new Dynamo tables, provided by operator Vince Schappell's Professional Air-Table-Hockey company. Dynamo's Air Hockey table has been fully sanctioned by the USAA (players' association) and is fast becoming the standard for tournament and match play. The event saw Houston's Robert Hernandez capture his second national title with eight-time national champion Jesse Douty of Atlanta taking second place. Phil Arnold of Houston came in third. The Pro "B" Division was won by Patrice Nale of Houston, Expert Division went to Roy Ferguson of Houston and Anton Mawhood of Houston won Amateur honors. Patrice Nale also captured her third consecutive Women's Division title.
